ESTABLISH NEW OLYMPIC RECORD.

McDonald and Rose Pass Weight-Putting Mark.

American Team Wins All Three Places in the Competition.

STOCKHOLM, July 10.—A new Olympic record was created by P. J. McDonald of the Irish-American Athletic Club, with his put of 15 metres 34 centimetres (a shade over 50 feet 4 inches) in the finals of the weight putting. The old Olympic record of 48 feet 7 inches, made by Ralph Rose in 1904, was also exceeded by Rose himself, who today put the weight 15 metres 25 centimetres.

The program for the fifth day of the athletic section of the games was full of interesting events. It included the trial heats in the 200-metres flat race, the final of the 5,000 metres flat race, semi-finals of the 1,500-metres flat race, the pole vault and the weight-putting. In all these competitions American athletes were engaged, and the prospects of the United States team adding to its list of victories were very favorable at the opening of the sports this morning.

The stadium began to fill at an early hour, the spectators including many American and British visitors who had come to watch the running of the trial heats in the 200-metres flat race. The weight-putting was completed early, and, as a result, the American team added to its total of points another six as P. J. McDonald, Ralph Rose and L. A. Whitney shared first, second and third place between them.

The American delegation felt sure of the weight-putting. There were four Americans in the field of 22 competitors, not one of whom came within sight of them except the brawny Finn, E. Niklander, who put 13 metres, 36 centimetres. L. A. Whitney, Boston Athletic Association, beat this by putting 13 metres, 93 centimetres (45 feet, 7 inches). George W. Philbrook, Notre Dame University, was fifth.

The 18-trial heat in the 200-metres flat race furnished more races for second place than for first. In several of the heats as soon as the winners saw that they had the race at their mercy they slowed up. In seven of the heats only two runners took part in each. Those, of course, were merely exhibitions. There was one real race in this event between G. H. Patching, South Africa, and Clement P. Wilson, Coe College.

In the 1,500-metres flat race the judges were unable to decide who was second. Abel Kiviat, Irish-American Athletic Club, and Norman S. Taber, Brown University, came in practically together and judges are awaiting the development of photographs of the finish of the race before giving their decision as to who was second. It was a fine struggle. Howard Drew, Springfield High School, was unable to run and the spectators were greatly disappointed.

There is considerable dissatisfaction here over the timing of the foot races which is done by an electrical apparatus. Several veteran English sportsmen, who timed Drew in a trial heat of the 100 metres, are certain he made a world's record by a fifth of a second.

TRYING TO STEAL ELECTORAL VOTE.

Roosevelt Party Repudiates Bull Moose Platform.

President Taft and Chairman Hilles Confer in Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—President Taft conferred today with Chairman Hilles, Representative McKinley, Representative Burke of South Dakota, vice chairman of the Congressional committee, and Representative Moore of Pennsylvania, secretary, over the question of whether an elector chosen on the Republican ticket would vote in the electoral college for Colonel Roosevelt, running on a third-party ticket. In South Dakota the state convention already has named Roosevelt men on the Republican ticket. Similar action is expected in other states. The President and Mr. Hilles are expected to concentrate their attention on this question.

"The cardinal plank in the Bull Moose platform" said Representative Burke, "is 'Thou shalt not steal', but the first thing that party did in my state was to steal the Republican electoral vote. The state committee chose for electors men who have declared for Roosevelt, but they will go on the Republican ticket. If they are elected under the Republican banner they expect to vote for a man who has deserted the old party and is making one of his own. In South Dakota we can petition and put a set of of Taft electors in the field, but in many states this is impossible. The Taft men in Kansas have Taft electors in the field, but in case Roosevelt men are chosen they know of no remedy to keep them on the Republican ticket which goes before the voters in November."

Members of the sub-committee of nine of the Republican national committee, who remained in Washington today for conferences with National Chairman Hilles, Representative McKinley and other leaders of President Taft's campaign, outlined the program which they expected would be followed July 19 at a meeting in New York to select a national treasurer and appointed an executive committee and advisory committee. It was the sentiment of most of the committeemen here that the advisory committee should be composed chiefly of men not on the Republican national committee. Several leaders were talked of for places. There was a pronounced sentiment in favor of having the Progressive element of the party represented.

For the executive committee half a dozen men were being considered. The Western men are pressing for the appointment of a national treasurer from some Middle Western or Western state. They point out that both Chairman Hilles and Secretary Reynolds are from Eastern states.

Chairman Hilles was busy today turning over his work at the White House to the assistant secretaries. He probably will go to New York Saturday. Secretary Reynolds went to New York today to arrange for the opening of national headquarters.

ROYALIST REBELS IN THE MOUNTAINS.

Again Out-Manoeuvre the Government Troops.

Society of Patriots Organize Great Parade in Lisbon.

LISBON, Portugal, July 10.—The Royalist rebels in the north of Portugal again out-manoeuvred the Republican government troops today. After the sanguinary encounter of yesterday at the town of Cabeceiras de Besto, which was held in strong force by the Royalists, who defeated the Fifth regiment of infantry, re-inforcements of government troops were rushed to the scene of the fighting and a strong cordon of infantry this morning advanced slowly on the insurrectionary town, pouring in a heavy fire as they went forward. A few scattered shots were the only response to this attack and when the final assault on the town was made by the government troops with fixed bayonets the besiegers found the streets deserted and all the houses empty. The inhabitants to a man had withdrawn to the mountains with the Royalists and are now hidden in rocky shelters along the passes.

Unless the Portuguese government decides to weaken the garrisons of Lisbon and Oporto, which would be a dangerous measure to take in view of the possibility of revolutionary outbreaks in the big cities, it seems likely the Royalist warfare in the northern provinces is likely to be continued for some time to come.

The Royalists retreat to foreign soil in Spain when they are hard pushed by the government troops. As the frontier is very mountainous it offers many safe retreats to the Royalists, whose roving bands are thus able to hold in check the superior forces of the government. According to last accounts Captain Henrique de Paivo Couceiro, the Royalist leader, has now retired to Spanish territory.

The general plan drawn up by the Royalists for the invasion of Portugal was as follows: A column of 200 men headed by Lieutenant Sepulveda was to enter the country across the river Minho, Captain Couceiro with 900 men was to cross the frontier and enter the province of Tras-Os-Montes, which Captain Acevedo with 200 men was to reach from Beira and Camacho with 250 men from Abotelo.

Every column succeeded in entering the province, and with some losses Captains Couceiro and Camacho effected a junction and fought a battle at the town of Chaves.

The Society of Patriots organized a great patriotic parade last evening in the streets of Lisbon. Large crowds applauded the paraders, who stopped and cheered in front of the Belgian legation as a mark of approval of the seizure of the steamer Vos at Zeebrugge in Belgium June 14. The vessel was taking on board arms and

For nearly a century and a half—ever since the year 1770—the people of Newport have been coming to what is now known as The Century Store for their dry goods and kindred wares and during all that long period—five full generations—they have never been disappointed in style, quality or price.

The grand old house of Wm. Sherman Co. built up its great fame by shrewd buying, square selling and clean merchandising. It has held a warm place in the hearts of all the citizens of Newport, their parents, grandparents and great-grandparents. It was an early example of the now popular "square deal." It was the foremost store in all respects.

When we succeeded this honorable firm, it was with the fixed resolve to preserve inviolate the best traditions of our predecessors; to aim high, and to strike even higher; to serve the public with the same fidelity that characterized the long business career of the founders of this business, and thus to maintain and deserve the full confidence of this community. And all this we shall do.

But greater service demands greater facilities, and that is why we are erecting a new business building on the "old stand" which in equipment, comfort and convenience will be second to none in this Commonwealth. This building is nearly finished, and we shall occupy a portion of it.

GREAT BARGAIN SALE PREPARATORY TO MOVING.

To provide for the orderly removal of our stock to the new building, we shall be compelled to close our doors for a few days, from July 15th to July 19th. We propose to open our new establishment with a clean, fresh stock and therefore shall close out all odd lots before we move.

THIS CLEARING SALE WILL COMMENCE TOMORROW MORNING.

The variety of special offerings is too great to mention in detail. We can only say that the bargains in many lines are phenomenal, and early purchasers will be rewarded with substantial money savings.

COME TO THE OLD STORE TOMORROW—EARLY!

MRS. YOUNG EXONERATED.

Educators Expunge From Records Charge that Rolls Were "Stuffed."

CHICAGO, July 9.—Open charges that at the convention at Boston two years ago, when Mrs. Ella Flagg Young superintendent of Chicago schools, was elected president, the rolls were "stuffed"; that teachers were enrolled as active members credited from Chicago schools when they lived in other states; and that their dues were paid by Chicago principals to insure more votes for Mrs. Young, were voted upon by the National Education Association today. The board of directors adopted unanimously a resolution that all reference to the charges should be "expunged from the records, without impugning the motives or impeaching the character of anyone."

It was the sense of the meeting that no conscious wrong entered into the election of Mrs. Young. At the same time it was declared that Secretary Irwin Shepard, who made the charges, was not guilty of any mis-statement when he referred to the violation of certain technicalities at the Boston election.

HEAVY SHOCKS IN ALASKA.

Mt. Katemai Believed to be in Eruption Again.

CORDOVA, Alaska, July 9.—In connection with earthquake shocks of Saturday and Sunday, felt throughout Alaska, it is now feared that Mt. Katemai again is erupting. CHICAGO, July 9.—Another Cy Young, known as "Cy the III," who stands six feet six inches and is said to be a promising pitcher, has been signed by President Comiskey of the White Sox. He was obtained from the Stevens Point Wis. Club.

THE YOUNG MAN'S ERA.

Opportunities and Responsibilities Greater While Their Elders Acknowledge Fitness.

[Boston Transcript.]

In his address at the Williams College Commencement, which he attended as the recipient of a well-deserved honorary degree, Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes said: "As I look about me in this country today I find that the young men are better than we were at their ages." This was rather a significant declaration, because Judge Holmes during an active career has had rare chances for observing men both young and old, and in many relations in life. Moreover, conviction must be strong enough to overcome a somewhat natural tendency of advancing years. There are many now traveling the downward slope of life who will be ready to challenge the judicial opinion on this question, though not as many in proportion as could have been found 50 years ago.

Perhaps the judge has a little hereditary as well as acquired faith in young men, for his father believed in them and enjoyed their society, even to the latest years of his long and fruitful life. Possibly his comparison taken by itself is a trifle vague. In what way are they better? Are they more normal? We have rather been taught to believe that we are living in an age of ethical carelessness and indifference, to put it mildly. But if we look about us, as Judge Holmes has done, we shall discover that the young men of today will average to show more temperance and not less honesty than their fathers did. They may violate as many social and legal standards, but it must be remembered that standards are higher than they were even 30 years ago. It takes much less to make a scandal than was formerly the case.

But perhaps it was on no particular phase of life that he was basing his judgment, but on the complete ensemble, gifts of mind as well as of character. Certainly the young should be better because they have enjoyed much richer opportunities than their elders. The standards of culture have been lifted. The demands upon the young men preparing for business and the professions are much greater. Not long since a well known Boston doctor was seen by a friend in a nearby cafe dining with his son and another young man, both medical students. "Ah," said the friend, "you are giving the young men points, I see." "On the contrary," was the reply, "I am getting points from them." We may think we lack some of the giants of the law, the admiration of their time in the old days, but that is because methods have changed. There was never before such an array of profound legal skill and learning as there is today; never before so many good lawyers. The old standards no longer pass muster.

It is not so long ago that the young men complained that their elders unduly hung to responsible places in business and kept them insubordinate positions. That too is changing, and perhaps nothing has done more to effect the change than the schools of commerce and the technical schools. It is now a matter of necessity to bring the young men in as shaping factors in the rapidly developing enterprises of the present time, because they bring with them the newest ideas and at least the foundations of the greatest skill, which needs only practice to perfect.

Not only are the opportunities and responsibilities of young men and young women greater, but the acknowledgment of their fitness to meet them is more ungrudging on the part of their elders. Insistence upon the former separateness has been dropped. Not so long ago it was emphasized even in dress. When they had passed 40 the women donned caps and the men qualified their attire in a manner to warn their juniors that they no longer had interests in common. Now they exert themselves to maintain companionship with youth as long as possible, and if there is a break it is not likely to be of their making. Yes, the young men are better than they were 60 years ago, and so are the old ones.

FOR CHICAGO'S PAGEANT WEEK.

A fleet of 2,000 power boats, comprising craft built before the Civil war as well as the finest of the present year's products, will go to Chicago from all directions during the naval pageant week, August 10 to 17. The annual cruise of the Mississippi Valley Association draws about 1,000 boats as a usual thing, but this year, on account of the pageant and races to be held there, this number will be doubled.

IN PRAISE OF AGE.

There Should Be no Shame in Years and Those Other Hours of Gold Bring Their Rewards.

[Edwin L. Sabin, in Lippincott's.]

This is proffered, not necessarily to disparage the golden hours and youth, but in praise of those other hours of gold more rich, yet of value less appreciated. For the champions of youth are many, and the champions of age are few. Nevertheless, if peace hath its victories, age hath its rewards, and in years there should be no shame.

Age is but comparative. I well can recall when it appealed to me that should I ever attain to the ripeness of ten, and stand as mature as my swaggering brother, who had donned long trousers, then would I be at all desirable dignity. How must it seem to be ten—with a roundly uttered, manly "Darn," with long trousers, and a nickel in the pocket!

At ten, did that prove to be only a foothill, with maturity and all the appurtenances thereto still beyond; and twenty beckoned, ahead, from the pinnacle of manhood. Aye, to be twenty; to go to bed when one chose, to throw a base ball swift as a rifle bullet, and to wait upon the young ladies! At twenty would I be old—and sometimes I wondered how it would feel.

But at twenty, forty was an ultimate goal where life would have been lived and spent, and the backward look could outdistance the forward. Forty, with wife and family and business, the world mostly seen, and a stiffness of the joints hampering the gay activities of preceding years. For a little fear was clouding the horizon.

And now at forty—what? Nothing in particular. The fear—that suspicion of fear—was very foolish. At forty, one has the same new interests, the same sense of anticipation for a morrow, the same expectation of doing and completing, the same recurring pleasures; and while one accepts that the knees wobble a little in running, and that a few teeth are on the danger line, one has the same impression of remoteness when considering the topic of final dissolution.

So will it be, I fancy, at fifty. Fifty now looms portentious. At fifty life will have been two-thirds lived. No, not lived; two thirds past. It will only be two-thirds past. In those remaining 15, or 20, or 25 years, it may be found that living has only just begun! There will be, of course, a further gradual weakening of unused muscles, a further acquisition of artificial teeth. This today fills youth at 40 with a certain sadness, an awe of the inexorable march of time. But lo, when fifty comes it is only a change in figures, and off of paper signifies nothing. So indefinable has been the progress through the decade that we scarcely may realize when mental exercise stole in to succeed physical, and proved as satisfactory. For every privilege removed, another privilege as pleasant has been substituted. And so will it be, let us accept, at sixty, and at seventy, and at eighty. The change is but a change in viewpoint; and the grand canyon of life still opens, marvelous, in every direction.

So why dread or pity age? Age deserves not dread, and asks not pity. Only to be pitied is he or she who resists it, and, frightened or rebelling at the kindly current, would turn and breast it. Whereas to be envied is he who floats serene, along and finds, I am sure, all the shore line lovely.

There is, students state, a peace and a content, a broadening of the perspective, a blissful forbearance, a philosophy warranted by experience, to give age a charm possessed by no other epoch—no, not even by youth. This happy state is evident in the gentle voice of the grandmother, in the ready doze of the grandfather, in a mild acquiescence to weather and ills, in a pleased looking-on without participating. To render up oneself thus, is to live as fuly as to dance at the May-pole of time. For life is but relative.

WORDS FROM HOME.

Statements That May Be Investigated. Testimony of Newport Citizens.

When a Newport citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Newport resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

John L. Cookinham, 20 Poplar St., Newport, R. I., says: "I gladly confirm the statement I gave for publication in 1908 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. My kidneys troubled me for some time. The kidney secretions contained sediment, and were irregular in passage, causing me annoyance. My back also ached severely. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Hay's Drug Store, and they gave me entire relief."

Investigation May Result in Wholesale Clean-Up of Bucket Shops.

NEW YORK, July 9.—An investigation recently started by government agents here will probably result shortly in another wholesale clean-up of bucket shops, such as took place in 1910, when so many arrests and indictments were recorded that the government agents confidently believed they had broken up the practice for many years to come. Recently, however, information reached the government agents that hundreds of small bucket shops were being operated in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and the New England states, not to mention Canada.

A TASTY DINNER.

Rhubarb Jelly With Whipped Cream, Conserve, Sherbet and Charlotte Make Dainty Dishes.

[Cornelia C. Bedford.]

Tomato and Cocoanut Soup
Baked Fish Cucumbers
Parisienne Potatoes
Roast Lamb Green Peas
Asparagus French Dressing
Mint Ice
Coffee

It is supposed that six or eight covers are to be laid. Early in the morning grate the rind from four lemons, cut fine the leaves from a bunch of mint, add a pint of boiling water and let stand half an hour. Boil together for five minutes a pint of water and two cupfuls and a half of sugar, add the first liquid and the juice of the lemons and set aside. When cold strain through two thicknesses of cheese cloth and color a pale green. At 4 o'clock freeze the mixture. When quite firm add two tablespoonfuls of creme de menthe, re-pack and set aside.

As a stuffing for the fish mix together one cupful of fine dry bread or cracker crumbs, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-third teaspoonful of pepper and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Wash and dry the fish, fill with the stuffing and sew it up. Gash each side at intervals of two inches and lay in each a strip of larding pork. Arrange in the pan and it is ready for the oven.

For the soup turn a can of tomato into a saucepan and two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, three sprigs of parsley, a clove, a teaspoonful of salt and a half teaspoonful of peppercorns, stew slowly for half an houdulsybexx stew slowly for half an hour then rub through a sieve; there should be almost a quart. Shell and peel a cocoanut. Put it through the food chopper, pour over it three cupfuls of boiling water and let stand until cold, stirring occasionally, and strain through a cloth, squeezing hard.

Scrape small new potatoes of even size and let them stand in cold water until needed. Scrape the asparagus, boil in salted water until just tender, rinse in cold water to heighten the color, then set aside. When needed serve on lettuce leaves, with French dressing.

As a sauce for the fish brown two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and brown again; then add gradually two scant cupfuls of water or stock. When smooth and thick add one teaspoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of tarragon vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of chopped onion, 10 drops of Worcestershire, two drops of tabasco, salt and pepper to taste, and a salt spoonful of made mustard. Let this simmer for 10 minutes, strain into a clean saucepan, add a tablespoonful of chopped olives and set aside ready for re-heating.

Ten minutes in which to heat through and 15 minutes for each pound is to be allowed for the fish. Pour a half-cupful of boiling water in the pan and with this baste the fish every 10 minutes; the oven should be very hot. The potatoes, which are served with the fish, are boiled until tender but unbroken, rolled in seasoned melted butter and placed in the oven until lightly browned.

The strained tomato and cocoanut water should be heated separately and the latter thickened with one heaping tablespoonful of butter and three tablespoonfuls of flour rubbed together to a paste; into this, when taken from the fire, the highly seasoned tomato is gradually stirred and the soup served at once.

Rhubarb Jelly—Wipe the stalks, but do not peel. Cut into bits, and for each quart add three quarters of a cupful of water. Cover closely in an agate kettle and simmer until the fruit is soft, then strain through four thicknesses of wetted cheese cloth. Measure and return to the fire. For each pint allow a pound of sugar. Spread the sugar in shallow pans and stand in the open oven where it will warm through without coloring or melting. To the juice add a tablespoonful of lemon juice, heat and boil steadily for 20 minutes. Slowly add the hot sugar, and as soon as it is entirely dissolved take from the fire and pour the jelly into sterilized and heated jelly glasses.

Rhubarb Conserve—Peel and cut into half-inch pieces sufficient rhubarb to weigh five pounds. Add a pound and three quarters of seeded and chopped raisins and five pounds of sugar, heat slowly and boil for 15 minutes. Add the juice and grated rind of four oranges and cook together for five minutes longer. One tablespoonful of hot water may be put in the saucepan at first, this small amount being sufficient to keep the sugar from sticking until the heat begins to draw out the fruit juice.

Rhubarb Jelly with Whipped Cream—To one quart of prepared rhubarb allow one pint of sugar and one scant box of gelatine. Soak the gelatine in one cupful of cold water, and stew the rhubarb gently until tender. Add the softened gelatine, stir until dissolved and rub through a sieve. Pour into a wetted border mold and set away to stiffen. In serving turn out on a platter and fill the centre with whipped cream.

Rhubarb Sherbet—Peel and cut into inch-pieces sufficient fresh rhubarb to measure one quart. Add three cupfuls of water and simmer until tender, then strain, pressing to obtain all the liquid. Return to the fire with one cupful and a half of sugar, boil up once, add one teaspoonful of granulated gelatine soaked in a little cold water, stir until dissolved, then set aside. When cold add four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one cupful of orange juice and cold water, if needed to make three pints. Freeze, repack and let stand for two or three hours before serving. This sherbet may, if desired, be tinted to a delicate green by the use of a little green color paste.

Rhubarb Charlotte—Thickly butter an oval mold or deep dish. Crumble the inside of a loaf of stale bread and measure. To one quart melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and pour it slowly over the crumbs, turning them through that the mixing may be even. Peel and cut into half-inch pieces sufficient rhubarb to measure one quart. Fill the dish with alternate layers of crumbs and rhubarb, sprinkling sugar thickly over each layer of the latter. Finish with crumbs, put an extra teaspoonful of butter cut into bits over the top and bake in a slow oven for from [illegible] minutes to an hour, according to the thickness of the charlotte. Serve hot or cold.

Spiced Rhubarb—Peel and cut the rhubarb into inch-pieces, then weigh. For five pounds add one pint of vinegar, four pounds of sugar, and two tablespoonfuls each of whole cloves and broken stick cinnamon, tied loosely together in a bit of thin muslin. Cook steadily in a granite kettle for about 40 minutes or until as thick as marmalade. Put in jelly glasses or small jars.

H. Bryant, Amasa S. Williston and George W. Potter were appointed a committee to arrange for a settlement with the abutting owners.

The only bid for the construction of the mile of macadam road running from the Tiverton Four Corners, westerly, to the King road, was as follows: "I will build a macadam road from Four Corners, westerly, according to the specifications for the sum of $6,387.65. If the 940 lineal feet of trench and brown pipe is eliminated, I will do the work called for, for the sum of $5,987.65." The contract was awarded to John A. Hathaway, for the sum of $5,987.65.

The following were drawn to serve as jurors as occasion may require: Grand, John A. Wilcox, George H. Cory, Joseph R. White, Manuel F. Norries, Frank E. Grinnell, Phillas J. Guillotte. Petit, John Schlegel, James G. Wordell, John A. Pennott, Thomas Beardsworth, Elmer E. Grinnell, William Hindle, Benjamin C. Seabury, William I. Hopkins, Oliver Morin, Leroy H. ETRUSCAN BRIDGE WORK

[Charles Winslow Hall, in National Magazine.]

The Etruscans of ancient Tuscany, before the founding of Rome (B.C. 753) a free people, led all the nations of their day in dental science, and among the many beautiful and interesting objects gathered from the dust in their ancient tombs are found tooth "crowns" of enamel and partial sets of teeth banded and anchored with gold to the natural teeth; a kind of "bridgework," antedating our modern improvements by some 2,500 years. Etruscan art was transferred to Rome for (B. C. 460) the law of the twelve tables forbade the waste of gold by burning it with the body on the funeral pyre, but provided "but it shall not be unlawful to bury or to burn it, with the gold with which perchance the teeth may be bound together."

A Long Sweater.

This long sweater is trimmed with a collar, revers and cuffs in contrasting color and stitch, the sweater being in a heavy, close stitch, while the trimmings are in open basket-stitch. Crocheted buttons, matching cuffs and revers, make the sweater effective. The costume pictured includes a short outing skirt of white flannel, with inverted pleats to allow room for active exercise.

A DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLE.

[Washington Star.]

We had another meeting down to Pohick on the crick.
We tried to do our duty by the body politic.
We organized a glee club an' we hired the nearest band,
An' everybody's singing' "Hail, Columbia, Happy Land!"

We had some able speakers an' they said a thing or two
That threatened now an' then to make its audience rather blue,
About the awful danger of Oppression's iron hand.
But we all joined in the chorus, "Hail, Columbia, Happy Land!"

"Hail, Columbia!" And the distant echoes shout, "All Hail!"
With courage an' with honor that were never known to fail.
We're happy in a sacred past and in a future grand.
No wonder we keep singin' "Hail, Columbia, Happy Land!"

There are things to be corrected. There are dangers to avoid.
But we've got the men to guide us an' they're busily employed.
An' the only party platform on which old Pohick will stand
Is the everlastin' watchword, "Hail, Columbia, Happy Land!"

THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

To be Extended to Every Mechanic and Laborer Employed by the United States.

Attorney General Wickersham has rendered an opinion which will extend the eight-hour labor law to every mechanic and laborer employed by the United States. Previous interpretations of the law confined its operation mainly to "public works," such as "fortifications, buildings, etc." The question was raised in connection with the 10,000 laborers at customs ports.

TEN PAGES.

THE CITY AND THE HOSPITAL.

The annual report of the trustees of the Newport Hospital, printed elsewhere in this issue of The News, will be found to be full of interest to the people of Newport. Not only will it be seen again what an excellent work the institution is doing in the city, but the report shows more forcibly than ever how much Newport is receiving from the hospital. The city by its present contract pays $4,000 a year for the care of its sick and dependent poor; that is, it pays that amount if there is a demand for its services at the cost of $1 per day's treatment. Never since the city has had such an agreement has the work required of the hospital thereunder been less, and generally it has largely exceeded this stated amount. During the past year not only has the limit been reached but is has been exceeded nearly four-fold, and the city has received, for $4,000 treatment for more than 9,000 cases, which at the average cost at the hospital during the year would make a sum nearly $14,000 in excess of the amount paid.

When the city makes another contract with the hospital the value of the institution will, doubtless be more carefully noted and more adequate compensation given to the institution for the care of the needy sick. The announcement by the trustees that if they had received ample compensation for the care of the city's cases they would have been able to close the year with a balance rather than a deficit carries its own lesson. The city of Newport, which receives manifold benefits from the hospital, should not make the institution do more for a less price than it does for individuals. The hospital is a public institution, ready at all times to care for the sick and injured, but it is supported mainly by private funds and what it receives from patients, and the city should not expect it to give more than it is paid for.

TO WITHDRAW TAFT AND ROOSEVELT.

With suspicious unanimity Washington despatches a few days ago recounted a plan for a nation-wide petition to both the President and the ex-President to withdraw, in order to afford an opportunity for the selection of a candidate upon whom the whole Republican party could unite. Most of these gave no indication of the source of the movement or of the persons behind it. The despatch to one paper included a pretty clear hint that it was a scheme of the progressives, and the one sent to the New York Sun said plainly that scheme was inspired by progressives the scheme was inspired by progressives and particularly by the La Follette variety.

This gives the scheme a little air of rationality which it lacked otherwise. Of course any such petition is impracticable, any effort to induce Roosevelt to retire is out of the question, and it is extremely doubtful whether any such device could help the party chances. It would be a desperate measure if it could be carried through, and it would almost certainly disgust and discourage the Republicans to such an extent that little interest would be taken in the election and the party would probably fare worse than it will under the President with stories of a packed convention in Chicago.

If this is a scheme of the friends of La Follette to have him nominated for the Presidency it is not entirely absurd, though it is quite impracticable. La Follette feels greatly aggrieved that after he had his campaign well started the third-termer came along and rudely crowded him off the track. As between the President and the ex-President La Follette would undoubtedly enjoy the defeat of Roosevelt more than that of Taft. It may be that there are those among his followers who believe the leading supporters of the President are frightened and the leading supporters of Roosevelt are without hope, and that this situation creates a possible chance for their hero. We do not believe the petitions will be signed numerously, that Taft and Roosevelt would consent to withdraw, or that a candidate to be put up now would do any better than the President. If the Republicans can win they can win with the regular candidate of a regular convention.

BUTTER, EGGS AND THE PRESIDENCY.

Colonel Roosevelt is now deeply studying the price of butter, eggs, milk and meats. He is going into the campaign as the advocate of a lower cost of living, which is expected to bring the wage earners to his standard, but he does not know now what makes the cost of living high. He'll find out, however, in time to let the country know when the third party convention meets. The subject has been investigated repeatedly and Professor Fisher of Yale has been trying to have an international commission make a wider investigation, but Roosevelt will have it all down fine in a few weeks.

It is interesting to observe that his progressiveness does not lie in the direction of a low tariff. Occasionally it has looked as though the progressives were the low-tariff Republicans. La Follette and Cummins have pounded protection almost as energetically as though they were Democrats, but Roosevelt, who will not admit that any can compare with him as a progressive, is becoming a stiff protectionist. When he wrote the life of Benton he was a low-tariff man or a free trader; certainly he was no admirer of protection. Henry George, Jr., has recently told of attending a free-trade dinner at which Roosevelt made as extreme a free-trade speech as either of the Georges, father or son, could have made. Some time afterward he resigned from the Cobden Club and wrote to Poultney Bigelow that he was obliged to come into regular standing with the Republican party in order to have any political future.

He is now railing at Wilson as a free trader, explaining the ruin which would come if the Democrats should control the government, and preparing to insure that disaster beyond peradventure by running for the Presidency to beat Taft. Of course with Wilson and the Baltimore platform no Democratic progressive would vote for Roosevelt. The only thing he could do would be to divide the Republican party and secure the election of the man whose tariff opinions now are what Roosevelt's were a few years ago.

But, after all the other investigations have failed, we are going to find out from the colonel what makes the cost of living high and how he would make it low.

LEAD POISONING.

We have lagged behind nearly all the countries of Europe in legislating against phosphorus matches on account of the frightful disease so often contracted by workers, and it took us two years to secure a law after a harmless form of phosphorus available for matches had been found and the owner of the patent had made it free to all manufacturers. Therefore we cannot hope for legislation to prevent lead poisoning soon, but just as the advance of civilization made laws against white phosphorus inevitable, sooner or later, so legislation in regard to lead poisoning will come, though it may be a long time before we have anything so drastic as France has. There the evidence of lead poisoning made such an impression upon the country that several years ago a law was enacted outlawing lead paints after 1914. This gave the manufacturers ample time to dispose of their stocks on hand and adapt their business to the manufacture of zinc colors instead.

The Survey has just published an account of the process of scaling the paint off warships, which has resulted in some severe cases of lead poisoning. Where this is done in the open air probably no harm would come to the health of the men, but when they are working in the extremely small compartments of the double bottom they are under the most adverse conditions imaginable. The air is filled with the lead dust and serious results are common.

In some places where men must work in dangerous or poisonous dust there are appliances for putting over the nose and mouth which will keep out the dust, and possibly they could be used in such work as has been described at the Brooklyn navy yard. Painters using lead colors in the open air are often victims of poisoning, and as the attention of the world is now fixed on humanitarian legislation substitutes for lead colors or means of protecting men who make them and apply them from the poisonous influences of the mineral are greatly in demand. England has taken some measures to protect workers in potteries from poisoning by the lead used for glazing, and all civilization may be forced to follow the example of France and adopt prohibition.

The British Admiralty has just assembled a big fleet for the inspection of the House of Lords and the Commons at Spithead. It comprised 315 war vessels and was gathered as an argument that the navy requires greater support from the legislators. The United States Atlantic fleet when it is gathered here will number less than a quarter of the British show, but Narragansett bay would not be a bad place for Congress to view a portion of the force which it supports.

The treasury officials who have decided to substitute a buffalo's head for the Goddess of Liberty on the new design for the five-cent coin have stirred up a hornet's nest among members of the Daughters of Liberty and other patriotic organizations, who protest against the change, believing that all American coins should be so designed as to emphasize patriotism. The work has so far advanced, however, that the director of the mint announces that the new nickels will be in circulation in a short time.

New Bedford is facing a tie-up in its cotton mills. The operatives object to the grading system of wages which is to go into effect next week, and announce that unless the manufacturers change the plans they will not report for work. The unions declare that there is only one plan to which they will agree, and that is the complete abolition of the system. If the mills are closed there will be between 25,000 and 30,000 idle operatives in New Bedford and this is not a pleasant prospect.

The Republicans having organized, the Presidential campaign is opened with the sending out of a statement declaring the confidence of the party in its cause and its candidates. Of course.

It was comfortable to sleep under a blanket in Newport last night, but how many other places can boast of the same condition?

The American athletes in the Olympic contests evidently have the other competitors on the run.

TAFT HIS OWN CAMPAIGN MANAGER.

[Boston Transcript.]

The selection of Mr. Hilles, the President's private secretary, as chairman of the Republican national committee, in effect puts the responsibility of the campaign management on President Taft himself. Mr. Hilles is pronounced by those who have had ample opportunity to form an opinion a thoroughly clean and entirely trustworthy man gifted with great energy and capable of astonishing industry. In the pre-nomination campaign he markedly distinguished himself among President Taft's lieutenants. He has not, however, a great familiarity with the working politicians of the larger states. Therefore he has a great deal to learn and not a little to unlearn.

Courteous by instinct and cordial in manner, Mr. Hilles will have the glad hand ready for new acquaintances. The fact that he is somewhat of an amateur may weigh against him, but, on the other hand, he ought to get the good will of the many who are constantly declaring that old politicians and veteran bosses have been too long in charge of the Republican machinery.

Presidents are often their own campaign managers, directing operations from a discreetly placed back office, so there is nothing novel in President Taft's supremacy in this respect. Roosevelt really directed his own campaign for re-election, and whoever appeared in the front office in 1908 the inspiration of skilled manoeuvring came from the White House, of which Theodore Roosevelt was then the occupant.

TAXATION AND SUFFRAGE.

[The Remonstrance.]

A favorite answer to any one who opposes woman suffrage is that our government was founded on the principle that "taxation without representation is tyranny." This cheap and catchy phrase has done a great deal of harm, for the colonists at no time professed any such theory in regard to internal taxation and our government was not built on any such principle—quite the contrary.

What the colonists fought for was the right to fix their own system of taxation, and not to to be levied on by another government where their conditions were not fully understood, and for the benefit solely of that far-off country. They gained their right to self-government in the same way that most countries have gained their independence, viz., by a trial of force. And as soon as they had proved their ability to enforce their will, they proceeded to tax every property owner, man, woman and child; but they limited the suffrage in every state by property, religious or educational qualifications and invariably by sex.

"The religious and property qualifications so characteristic of the eighteenth century gradually disappeared," and after the Civil war with the enfranchisement of the negro we had almost arrived at universal manhood suffrage. Since then, however, there has been a tendency to place a higher value on the elective franchise and thirteen states now possess an educational or property qualification.

FORTUNE IN FOX PELTS.

[San Francisco Argonaut.]

Captain O. B. Anderson, who is now returning from Alaska to Sweden, to live on his income, made his fortune not in gold mines but in silver foxes. He went to Alaska 20 years ago, working as engineer of a steamer, and while cruising along the coast he came upon a small island named Ugak, which gave him an opportunity to put a pet scheme into operation. Silver foxes were scarce, and their pelts brought a high price; then why not raise them? It was not easy work, but his ranch proved profitable and for years he has been supplying dealers in American cities. On his way to Europe he stopped off at St. Louis the other day to deliver 17 pelts, for which he gets $6,000.

CONSUMPTION AND GENIUS.

Not a few of the world's greatest geniuses in art, science and literature have died from tuberculosis, and on this account certain writers, such as Dr. Arthur Jacobson or Dr. John B. Huber, think that possibly this disease may provide a certain stimulus to the genius of an already great man. The following are some of the great men and women of letters mentioned by Dr. Jacobson who have died from tuberculosis: John Milton, John Locke, Alexander Pope, Dr. Samuel Johnson, Sir Walter Scott, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Goethe, Robert Louis Stevenson, Sidney Lanier, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Voltaire, John Ruskin, Charles Kingsley, Immanuel Kant, Rousseau, E. P. Roe and Paul Lawrence Dunbar. Among other great men who are reported to have died of tuberculosis may be mentioned Raphael, von Weber, Chopin, Nevin, Calvin, Cicero and Cecil Rhodes.

State-Wide Inspection of Summer Camps and Hotels Begun.

Important Decision in Cranston Case Gives That City Unpaid Back Taxes.

A state-wide inspection of the summer colonies, including the camps along the bay and such hotels as the proprietors desire to have examined, was begun Tuesday under the direction of Dr. Gardner T. Swarts, secretary of the State Board of Health. It will be made by Robert Miller, a medical student from a Pennsylvania college, who was formerly bacteriologist for the board. It is the purpose of Dr. Swarts to keep a close watch on the summer camps, in order to prevent an epidemic or an outbreak such as was experienced at Buttonwoods last summer. The hotels, particularly those at the shore resorts and watering places, will be visited and if the owner desires to have an inspection made it will be done. Dr. Swarts has prepared a list of 25 questions which the occupants of camps and hotels will be required to answer, and it will be the duty of the inspector to see that they are answered correctly. Another feature of the inspection is the "ten commandments" which have been arranged, and will be distributed to the summer residents, telling them what to do and what not to do. This is the first time anything of this kind has been done in Rhode Island.

By a decision handed down Monday afternoon by Judge Arthur L. Brown in the United States district court, the findings of Referee in Bankruptcy Chester W. Barrows in an important Cranston case are affirmed, which means that the city will receive $4,036.10 in taxes, which has been due and unpaid against the property of the Whittle Dye Works, later of the Shawmut Finishing Company, at Bellefont. The case has been under way about two years. The decision of the court settles a point which has never before been decided in this state, concerning a passage which has been in the statutes, unamended, since 1857. This is to the effect that taxes assessed against real estate constitute a lien against such estate for the period of two years, and, if the estate is not aliened, until collected. The question to be decided was whether or not the city treasurer of Cranston, by making an entry in his levy book within the two years, had taken such action as would constitute the beginning of valid proceedings under the lien. The finding of the referee, which the court affirms, is that this action was thus valid. The items concerned are the taxes for 1908, 1910 and 1909. The taxes of 1908 and 1909 were each $1,287, and that of 1910 $1,326, these sums, with interest charges, bringing the total up to $4,036.10.

William B. Westcott, president of the Westcott, Slade & Balcom Company, and a veteran of the Civil war, in which he served in three batteries of the First regiment, Rhode Island light artillery, died Tuesday in Providence, following an illness dating back to last March. He was in his seventy second year. Despite his advanced age, Mr. Westcott maintained his activities in connection with the firm's business up to the latter part of March. He was one of the oldest business men in the city, beginning employment there when he was 16 years of age. He began his business career, in 1865, when he was mustered out of the army with the rank of first lieutenant. Returning from the war in 1866 he entered the employ of Oliver Johnson and remained at that place of business 33 years, or until 1898, when he severed his connection to organize the paint business with Howard B. Slade and Albert E. Balcom, under the firm name of Westcott, Slade & Balcom. He was selected president of the concern and held that office up to the time of his death. Mr. Westcott was a member of the Church of the Mediator and held the offices of deacon and trustee of the Church for many years and up to the time of his death. He also was a member of Prescott Post Grand Army of the Republic, and a member of the Providence Marine Corps of Artillery, and of Hope Lodge, No 4, I. O. O. F.

In the Olympic games at Stockholm Tuesday Norman S. Taber of Brown University won his trial heat in the 1,500-metres flat race, qualifying for the finals to be run today. Taber defeated R. J. Baker of Great Britain and G. Amberger of Germany, winning in the moderately fast time of 4 minutes 25½ seconds. His time was better than that of Melvin Sheppard, who won the first heat in 4 minutes 27 3-5 seconds, with L. C. Madeira, University of Pennsylvania, running second and A. Hare of Great Britain third, but slower than that of most of the winners of the other heats in the same event.

Secretary of State Parker Tuesday affixed his signature to the last of the engrossed acts passed at the January session of the General Assembly. They are now complete and ready to go to the bindery. Notwithstanding the fact that the volume this year is next to the largest in the history of the state, Joseph W. Aikin, the engrossing clerk, has rushed them through and says he has been able to furnish them earlier than ever before.

GRANDSON TO PERPETUATE NAME OF ISADOR STRAUS.

In order that the name of Isidor Straus may be perpetuated, Jesse I. Straus, Jr., oldest grandson of the late merchant who lost his life on the Titanic and son of the oldest son, Jesse I. Straus, has obtained permission from the supreme court of New York to change his name to Isidor Straus. The grandson said in his petition that the formal application for the change of name was made in his behalf by his father, Jesse I. Straus, as his guardian and best friend. The petitioner said that he was 12 years old January 13. The boy's petition said:

I am desirous of changing my name to Isidor Straus because my father is the oldest son of the late Isidor Straus and I am the oldest grandson. The members of the family of the late Isidor Straus are desirous that the name of Isidor Straus be perpetuated and continued in the family and be borne by the eldest grandson.

Your petitioner believes that the change will substantially promote his interests, because the said Jesse I. Straus, Jr., holds the memory of his dead grandfather in such reverence that the fact that he bears such name should prove an incentive to him throughout his life to keep that name stainless and honorable.

CONFERENCE POSTPONED.

Railroad Men and Receivers of Freight Differ as to Condition of the Local Yard.

A track gang was here Tuesday and cleaned away the litter about the local freight yard. The roadbed about the tracks is still in objectionable condition and a conference, between road officials and receivers of freight was scheduled for this noon, but has been called off by the railroad men. The latter were to bring an expert here to assure the shippers that small boulders and coarse sand make a good roadway for heavy teaming. From practical experience in the yard the local men have learned that such a way is cruelty to their horses, and the shippers announced that they would have a road expert present also. The postponement of the conference followed the announcement that a second expert was to be brought into the game.

The company reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission that the local yard had been put in satisfactory condition and the report was referred to the local freight receivers. They at once replied to the government commission that apparently only the railroad people were satisfied and a detailed statement of conditions was furnished. This resulted in renewed activity about the yard and an intimation from the railroad people that they are tired of coming to Newport to fix up things. They have been told frankly by the receivers that they will keep coming until things are fixed right, as the local men find that at last they have a means of making the big corporation take notice of their complaints.

POSTPONED TO SATURDAY.

Army and Navy Athletic Meet to be Held When the Ships of the Fleet are Here.

The outdoor athletic meet of the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association, announced for today at the Civic League lot, has been postponed until Saturday. At this time the Florida, Louisiana, Kansas and the rest of the fleet are expected to be back again and the athletic officers of these ships have promised to send over teams. The San Francisco has already entered a good-sized team in all the events; also the Kansas, Louisiana, Training Station and Fort Adams. Physical Director Quinney, who will have charge of the sports, emphasizes the fact that the public are invited to witness them. It will be the first event of this sort in a long while; that is the first outdoor meet of the enlisted men. Several weeks ago there was an indoor meet in the gymnasium at a time when many of the ships were in, and if there is as much interest Saturday as there was on that night the event should prove a success. The prize for the meet is a copper cup offered by the Newport Opera House, to go to the team scoring the largest number of points. All sailors and soldiers, whether or not members of the Association are

The events will be: 50-yard dash, discus (free style), 16-pound hammer throw, 16-pound shot-put, running high jump, pole vault, running broad jump, three standing broad jump. Blue ribbons will be distributed for first prizes in each event, red ribbons for second prizes and white ribbons for third prizes.

—The Bay State trackmen are putting a new mate in the west track on Broadway at the City Hall cross-over. The chilled steel tongue in the old one had become so badly worn that fears began to be entertained that it would fail to do duty. A new switch was put in some time since, for the same reason. The men had a hot day to do the work and on a pavement so hard that they had difficult work to free the old section.

ADMIRAL OSTERHAUS HERE.

Connecticut Arrives, Followed by Georgia, Nebraska and New Jersey.

Fleet Divisions Crippled by Repairs to Vessels and Drills Will be Hampered.

Colors on the Connecticut came a couple of minutes before the official 8 o'clock at the Training Station this morning, and the battery there was well advanced with the salute before the test blow on the Station fire alarm came in. This alarm is supposed to set the time for the beginning of the official day on the island, but the appearance of Admiral Osterhaus in the bay even changed the time. The Connecticut came in early Tuesday evening, but the Admiral arrived this morning; hence the salute to his flag at the beginning of a new day.

The wireless announced this morning that there were five battleships and 17 destroyers at anchor off Point Judith. The ships put to sea Tuesday, but it is to be seen that they did not go far. The ocean is still very misty because of the hot wave and the lively manoeuvres of the week appear to be sorely encroached upon. There was also reported off the point, but steaming around, another destroyer, which is taken to be the new and speedy Jouett.

A little before 10 o'clock three battleships were reported as coming in. When they were seen along the wharves they were supposed to be the Second division, but they proved to be the Georgia, Nebraska and New Jersey of the Third division, which has just come north from duty about Cuba. As the ships passed the Connecticut, lying at anchor off the Jamestown ferry shore, they saluted the flag of Admiral Osterhaus and then continued up the bay, finally dropping down to an anchorage off Potter's cove and opposite the Second division's location.

It was 11:20 when the Georgia, Admiral Fiske, dropped her anchor, lowered her flag from the gaff and set her colors and jack from their respective staffs, indicating that the ship was at anchor. The other ships followed this routine as rapidly as they took their positions. All official calls were suspended by orders from both admirals, owing to the pressure of routine work in preparation for the war game by the latest incoming ships. Nine of the submarine flotilla put to sea early this morning to participate in the war practice.

The New Hampshire has dropped down from her anchorage where she was struck by the Commonwealth, and the mechanics are still hard at work, preparing her for her trip to drydock. She still flies her colors from the gaff, as she was compelled to do Sunday, because of the sweeping away of the flag-staff.

With the New Hampshire crippled, the South Carolina just gone to a navy yard for extensive overhauling and the Vermont not yet out of the yard, though over time, the Second division is rather disrupted for manoeuvre drills, but the fleet is in a like position. The Third division now shows only three ships and the First has a like number, while the Fourth, which is on its way here, has two ships in the navy yard. In the re-organization of the fleet the past winter five vessels were assigned to each division, to permit one to be in yard and still have the numeral strength of a division for manoeuvring which is four. The fleet was to be made up of four divisions, and that this might not be interfered with a seventeenth vessel was provided as flagship for the commander-in-chief. As matters now stand, neither fleet nor division drill can be held in complete form.

A part of the cause for this is ascribed to the terrible pounding the ships received last fall and winter, while his making the repairs more extensive than the three-month period in yards contemplated for so many craft. It has been estimated that the repairs to the New Hampshire will neither cost a great deal nor consume much time, yet this is only an estimate and naval men predice that when she is once in the navy yard she will not come out again for months.

Sunday noon after transferring the First and Third divisions of the Naval Reserves to the Kansas and the Second and Fourth to the Louisiana, Rhode Island practice ship Aileen sailed for Provincetown, but was obliged to anchor during the night in Vineyard sound, because of the fog. Except the Rodgers of Massachusetts, she was the first of the Naval Reserve vessels to arrive, and yet she did not report to Captain Decker of the Chester until Monday at 1:51 p. m. The Chicago, also attached to the Massachusetts contingent, broke her stearing shaft Sunday and sought repairs at the Boston navy yard. She was expected to report on her station in two days. The Machias, with the Connecticut Reserves, was held up by the fog. The Maine Reserves are on the Chester. The Aileen was ordered to proceed Tuesday to Massachusetts bay for target practice. Her allotment was fixed at 100 rounds for the three-pounders and 160 rounds for the one-pounders.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Two oil sprinklers are busy today on some of the principal earth and macadam roads, laying the dust. The work has been needed for some time, as the roads are unusually dusty, but the appropriation was not available until after the June town meeting.

Battleship Connecticut dropped anchor Tuesday afternoon off the east shore of the island, just north of the ferry. Three more battleships came to anchor off the east shore of the island this morning, farther up than usual, being well out of the fairway off Potter's point.

Mr. J. B. Lippincott and family have arrived at their cottage at Beavertail road for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boynton, who have been visiting relatives, have returned to Wilton, N. H.

Lighter Archer landed a deck load of lumber on Ferry wharf Tuesday.

MADE BY THE BLIND.

A sale for the adult blind is being held today at the residence of Mrs. Theodore K. Gibbs, "Bethshan," on Gibbs avenue. All the articles are made by the adult blind of the state, who receive the profits and are thereby made happy.

The work is carried on by the State Board of Education, which employs two teachers, Miss M. E. French and Miss Mary Kimball. Both are blind and teach in the homes the adult of both sexes. These includes some Newport people. In 1904 Thomas B. Stockwell, commissioner of education, told these two women to teach anything and everything which will make the blind happy and useful. Since 1904 more than 100 persons, who have lost their sight in adult life have received instruction. The teachers, both graduates of the Perkins Institution for the Blind in Boston, teach reading and writing in braille. The appropriation by Congress making possible the delivery of books for the blind from public libraries to all parts of the country has proved very useful.

The aim of the sales is to show the public what the blind can do and to furnish a market for the articles which they make. Those for sale include aprons of many kinds, towels, dusters, ironing-board covers, flat holders, raffia and reed baskets, footstools, work tables, bags, neckwear, rattles, balls, traveling cases, baby sacks, worsted slippers, handkerchiefs, face cloths, and bayberry bags.

The sale here represents 82 consignors. About 60 are under instruction, but all are not able to make articles for sale. The heavier baskets are made largely by the men, as are also the footstools and work tables. The teachers have a salesroom in Providence and also consign work to Women's Exchanges in Providence, Newport, Westerly and Bristol. A yearly Christmas sale is held in Providence.

It is well worth one's while to visit the exhibit at Mrs. Gibbs's. It is inspiring to hear the teachers tell of the enthusiasm of their pupils and of their delight in finding their work salable. The blind cannot work so quickly as those who have sight and therefore their work represents not only earnest endeavor but much time.

COOL BREEZE PREVAILS.

Hot Weather Did Not Continue as it Did A Year Ago, When It Was the Worst Ever.

The weather today did not follow up as it did a year ago today, taking the day of the week as the guide. On the Wednesday of the second week of July last year, which was July 12, Newport had the hottest weather one remembers. There was absolutely no air moving in the morning and it had continued warm all night, being 74 at 6 a. m., 82 at 8, 86 at 9 and 90 at 9:50. This was the limit. People seemed to stand still, unaccustomed to such conditions, and several were overcome by the heat.

Right at that point, with the mercury at its highest and with five hours during which it should have mounted higher, there came a break. The wind came out cool, a light thunderstorm broke with little rain and by noon the thermometer had dropped to 74, a fall of 16 degrees—equal, if one considers what the rise should have been, to fully 20 degrees. The hot wave was broken and people breathed easier.

Tuesday the shift from growing hot to cooler conditions came about 11. It was cooler during the afternoon and all night the thermometer was down to 68½. This afternoon The News thermometer shows only 74 and a cooling breeze prevails.

BULLSEYES BITING.

Not Many Fish Caught, But This is News for Which Some Have Been Waiting.

One might almost say there is no fishing and perhaps it is just as well. The prices at market are below the very poor condition of the market, even bluefish being quoted way down.

Tuesday the Reliance arrived with about four barrels of bullseye and a few medium mackerel. The bullseyes were beauties, some of them running up to two pounds. The main point is that they were caught with a jig and not in a net or trap; the fish are biting. They were caught off Block Island. This is news for which the Outer Fountain Fishing Club and others have been waiting.

Today Burdick Bros. had 30 barrels of small mackerel, the Ann M. Hamilton had 17 swordfish, the Julietta had 38 swordfish, but only took on ice and sailed, taking her fish with her. E. W. Lawton had two barrels, George Lawton two, the Newport Fisheries Company and Ollie Hicks two of squid and two of scup. C. B. Anderson had a few butterfish and scup, but the catch was poor and as he was taking up the trap the squid were brought ashore. For the past weeks they have been throwing the squid away.

Captain Ben Maxfield has taken in his trap and will go for pogies, where he says there are sure to be some fish. Besides, the cold storage needs pogies.

OFFICIALS ACT AS BEARERS.

Large Gathering of Public Men at the Simple Funeral of City Sergeant Westcott.

The funeral of City Sergeant William H. Westcott took place this afternoon from Emmanuel Church. The service, in accordance with the wishes of the deceased, was of a simple character, following the ritual of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Rev. Emery H. Porter, D. D., the rector, officiated.

Brief prayers were read at the home of the deceased on Bull street, after which the body was taken to the church where the public service was held. In the church was a large gathering of friends, including city officials, members of the Board of Aldermen and Representative Council and delegations from St. John's Lodge of Masons and Redwood Lodge, Knights of Pythias. The City Hall was closed from 2 o'clock until after the funeral, to give the former associates of Mr. Westcott among the city officials an opportunity to attend the service.

Mayor Boyle, Aldermen Thomas C. Albro, Jr., William Shepley, Frank J. Hughes, John E. Leddy and James McLeish, Clark Burdick, president of the Representative Council, and City Clerk Frank N. Fullerton acted as honorary bearers, and the active pall-bearers were Robert S. Franklin and William Hamilton, representing St. John's Lodge; Samuel H. Oxx and Everett I. Gorton, from Redwood Lodge, and Cornelius W. R. Callahan and John G. Costello, personal friends who were closely associated with Mr. Westcott at the city hall. The interment was in the Island cemetery, a large number following the body to the grave. There were many floral tributes from friends in privatt and official life.

The official party from the City Hall also included City Treasurer Taylor, Tax Collector Higbee, Street Commissioner Sullivan, City Solicitor Sullivan, Building Inspector Sullivan, Inspector of Plumbing Oman, Inspector of Nuisances Shaw, Clerk of Probate Court Hazard, Inspector of Meat Hazard, Clerk of the Highway Department Sisson, Chief Engineer Kirwin, Clerk oMre of the Board of Helath, Executive Officer Sampson of the Board of Health, Deputy Street Commissioner Burdick, Engineer Martland, Robert Kerr, William R. BELOW ZERO THIS SUMMER.

Real economy demands that some spot in your house be cold enough to preserve fruit, vegetables, butter, eggs, milk, etc., free from germs as long as you want to keep them. A good refrigerator affords the most convenient plan for storing food of this sort.

You find a vast difference in refrigerators. In some the consumption of ice is enormous. You pay for them over and over again in the "fuel" you put into them.

Others like the Baldwin have a circulation of cold, dry air that keeps all kinds of food in perfect condition.

The right kind will cost no more.

MIDDLETOWN.

Benefit for Holy Cross Guild—Local Clubs Represented at State Federation Meeting.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

As a benefit for Holy Cross Guild a pleasing program was given Tuesday evening at the guild house, in charge of Mrs. William M. Hughes. The numbers included a vocal solo, Mr. Arthur Isherwood of Fall River, soloist at St. Mary's Church, Portsmouth, "If I had the World to Give," encore "I hear you calling me"; recitation, "Back Home," Miss Sarah Underwood; "Fair Harvard" and "Way down upon the Swanee River," Mr. W. G. Stockwell, social secretary of the Newport Young Men's Christian Association, who played with hand bells; recitation, "The Busy Bee," Dorothy Spooner; violin solo, Mrs. Roberta Chase Lewis, "Rigoletto" (J. B. Singelee); reading, Mrs. Hughes, "A German Story," Mrs. M. D. Hewett; original composition on the cup bells, Mr. Stockwell; violin solo, "Les Puritains" (Charles Dancla), Mrs. Lewis. Frequent applause testified to the appreciation of the audience.

Miss Florence Carley of Newport acted as accompanist and she and Mrs. Elsie Elliot afterwards played for the dancing which concluded the evening. Lemonade and ice cream were on sale. The assembly hall was arranged with pink and crimson rambler roses, Easter lilies and sweet peas, the fireplace being banked with ferns and roses.

The Middletown clubs were represented at the annual meeting of the State Federation Tuesday at Bristol Ferry by 11 members from the Oliphant and two from the Paradise. The delegates from the former were Mrs. John R. Coggeshall, secretary and director, Mrs. Phoebe E. T. Manchester, with Mrs. Celia Hamilton and Miss Etta M. Sherman as alternates. —Mrs. James King Clarke and her children have arrived to spend the summer with Mrs. Clarke's parents, Lieutenant and Mrs. Hugh L. Willoughby, at "The Chalet."

—Torpedo boat destroyer Henley, of the same class as the Jouett, which arrived at the Torpedo Station Monday, was yesterday turned over by her builders, the Fore River Ship Building Company, to the naval authorities at the Boston yard. The Henley will at once be fitted out for her official trials.

—The erection of the tents for the annual session of the Portsmouth Camp Meeting, at Hedly's station on the Providence road, is nearly completed. The meeting takes place this month and is the occasion for the gathering of a number of camping parties, who enjoy the grove and the opportunity of spending a vacation there.

—In the superior court in Providence Tuesday, Justice Darius Baker presiding, a decree in the case of Charles Warren Lippitt et al. vs. Society of the Cincinnati in the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations was entered, denying the prayer of the complainants for a preliminary injunction and vacating the temporary injunction heretofore issued.

—Steamer Pontiac will not land another excursion in Newport soon. Tuesday evening she broke her shaft while midway between Rocky Point and Nayatt Point and was towed to Providence by the Newport & Bristol Ferry road's steamer Sagamore, which was on her way up the river with the Federation of Women's Clubs members.

—A large crowd gathered at the skating rink Tuesday evening for the skidoo party. The rink was cool in spite of the hot weather, and skating was not uncomfortable. A number of fancy skaters from the company's Casino rink at South Framingham, Mass., gave an interesting exhibition of skillful movements on the rollers. A moonlight skidoo party is to be the next special attraction.

—Mrs. William B. Leeds arrived from New York on private car Independence Tuesday evening, bringing her father, Mr. William C. Stewart, who has been critically ill at his residence in New Jersey. Mrs. Leeds went at once to the I. Townsend Burden cottage, "Fair Lawn," which she will occupy this season, as her own house, "Rough Point," which is undergoing extensive alterations, is not yet ready for occupancy.

—A collision between an electric car and a wagon Tuesday is reported from Bath road. The sufferer was Mr. Otto Ehrhardt's wagon, which had the shafts broken and other damages done. Apparently the horse escaped, but this morning Mr. Ehrhardt found him so lame that he could not take him from the stable. The place was the hill on Bath road at the beach. Mr. Ehrhardt's wagon was crowded by another and was not able to turn out as far from the track as was desirable.

SECURED WILSON'S NOMINATION.

William F. McCombs May be Made Democratic National Chairman.

Skillful Management of Pre-Convention Campaign Aroused Politicians' Admiration.

[Washington Correspondence of The News.]

WASHINGTON, July 9.—To William F. McCombs, who is likely to be selected chairman of the Democratic national committee, is given the credit more than to any other one man for Woodrow Wilson's nomination. Only 36 years old, the skill with which Mr. McCombs managed the pre-convention campaign won the admiration of the seasoned politicians.

Mr. McCombs started on his career as a lawyer in New York without a friend or an acquaintance. He made the same kind of an uphill fight that he encountered in Wilson's campaign for the nomination. He has been unusually successful in his profession. Until the beginning of the Wilson boom Mr. McCombs had not actively participated in national politics. In 1904 he ran for the assembly in a Republican stronghold. He was defeated, but he ran ahead of his ticket and cut down the Republican majority. That was about the extent of his dabbling in politics up to this year.

Norman E. Mack, who has been chairman of the Democratic national committee for four years, did not seek re-election. He will continue as a member of the committee, however.

The unwritten code among politicians is that no man belonging to a party must ever acknowledge that his party will be beaten in the campaign. He must stand up and predict victory, at least publicly. By making a plain statement, not for publication, John Sharp Williams got in bad, according to his story, in the campaign of 1904. That was the year when everybody could see that the Democrats were going down to defeat.

Williams returned from a campaign trip and was at the Hoffman House in New York, the old Democratic hangout. He was asked what he thought of the outlook. "We will carry the solid South," he replied, "including Missouri and Maryland, Nevada and possibly Colorado. Outside of that we won't have a single state."

The next morning his statement appeared in all the papers. "I hadn't seen a newspaper man about," said Williams, "and I couldn't understand how they got hold of it. One fellow, however, had gone so far as to put it in the form of an interview. I had him. In the most vigorous terms I could use I denied that I had given any such interview or anything like it. I jumped on that interview and got out of it in that way."

When the paragraph in the agricultural appropriation bill was reached which provided for making experiments in sugar growing John Garner of Texas, whose district has great sugar possibilities, moved an amendment for an increase of $5,000.

"Why not strike out the paragraph?" asked Minority Leader Mann. "What good is it now?"

"I suppose the gentleman has reference to the action of the Democratic caucus," said Garner. The caucus had just adopted the free sugar bill.

"Don't you think it would be playing upon the confidence of the people when it is the intention to ruin the entire industry?" continued Mann.

Much more to the same effect was said before Garner secured his increase, and he did not disclose what he knew to be a fact—that it was not expected that the free sugar bill would ever become a law.

You have heard a couple of comedians sparring and joshing each other on the stage. That is often what happens when Jim Mann and John Fitzgerald have nothing else to do. Not long ago Fitzgerald was reading a report of an "agricultural agent" who went into the Orient and reported on nearly everything he saw save agriculture.

"Read some more of it," said Mann. "It is the most interesting thing I have heard you get off in a good while."

"This man tells about a quarrel over a game of monte," said Fitzgerald. "The gentleman from Illinois may be familiar with monte. He seems to know everything."

"I have seen some Brooklyn fellows that played," replied Mann.

"This stuff," said Fitzgerald, returning to the report, "is of no value to a practical agriculturist."

"Like the gentleman from Brooklyn," said Mann.

"Or like the gentleman from Chicago," retorted Fitzgerald.

Congressman Campbell of Kansas was denouncing the excise tax bill as buncombe of a Democratic caucus.

"We do not have to go to a Democratic caucus for buncombe," shouted Covington of Maryland, "when we have left with us a few gentlemen from Kansas."

HUGE STONE IMAGES FOUND.

British Museum Sending Expedition to the Pacific to Solve Mystery of Prehistoric Race.

The British Museum is outfitting an expedition to the Pacific to try to solve the problem of gigantic prehistoric stone images of human beings discovered on Carter island, a mere speck in the ocean, about 2,500 miles west of Chili. It is thought that maybe this little isle of mystery is the last pinnacle of a submerged continent which once in by-gone ages occupied the greater part of the South Pacific and possibly joined Asia and America. The inhabitants may have gradually been forced to the top of the last peak, there to perish only after they had erected their wonderful monuments.

The island is only 45 square miles in area, but on it there have been raised immense platforms facing the sea and formed of huge stones fitted together without cement. Some of the separate stones weigh five tons, and the sea wall at places is 30 feet high and 200 feet long. On the land side of the platforms there are broad stone terraces, on which stand, on pedestals, huge figures carved out of lava from the crater of an extinct volcano several miles away.

There are in all 555 of the images, most of which have been thrown down perhaps thousands of years ago. The largest is 68 feet long from the top of the head to the hips, and its nose is 11 feet in length. None of the images show a figure below the hips and they seem to have been originally set on their pedestals as busts. Several of the busts weigh 250 tons apiece. There is evidence that the work on the images suddenly ceased. Vast numbers of human skeletons are under the stone platforms, probably the bones of people who were sacrificed to the images.

The exploring expedition is headed by W. Scoresby Routledge, M.A. It is due to leave London about August 1, on a 250-ton motor yacht, Mana, recently launched at Witstable.

LECTURERS AT COLUMBIA.

Manual Ugarte of Argentine Protests Against United States Imperialism.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Manuel Ugarte, the Argentine republic's greatest novelist and poet, is in New York for a series of lectures at Columbia University. In his first lecture he told his audience some very blunt facts about the attitude of his country and its South American neighbors toward the United States. He denounced the Nicaraguan loan as the "most monstrous and shocking negotiation that has ever been attempted in the world" and declared that the Panama canal "rests on a base of disloyalty."

"The mere fact," he began, "that I am saying these things here in New York city indicates that I have confidence and faith in the fundamental honor of this admirable nation which, busied in its own productive and beneficent labor, is doubtless ignorant of the use that is being made of its strength in neighboring territories, and is unaware that the most acrid antipathy is being reared against it in the rest of the new world. A journey I have just made through all Latin-America convinces me that the blind restlessness and disquietude that besets our people is organizing and crystallizing into an alert and vigorous movement of protest against the imperialism of the United States."

After discussing the Nicaraguan loan and the Panama canal he said: "The Monroe doctrine, at first a safeguard for all America, has been converted into an instrument of tyranny and does not now mean, as before that no country shall have colonies in America, but rather signifies that Latin-America is our own colony. Why should one be amazed therefore if we of Latin-America turn our eyes toward Germany or Japan seeking the counterpoise and equilibrium that the United States fails to accord us."

In conclusion the speaker spoke of the constant revolutions in the Latin-American countries. "You reproach us for these revolutions," he said; "but it is your own nation that has opened in New York and New Orleans a species of stock exchange for dealing in revolutions, where disorder and the hunger and ruin of many a Spanish-American country are speculated in."

BABY'S TERRIBLE SUFFERING
"When my baby boy was six months old, his body was completely covered with large sores that seemed to itch and burn, and cause terrible suffering. The eruption began in pimples which would open and run, making large sores. His hair came out and finger nails fell off, and the sores were over the entire body, causing little or no sleep for baby or myself. Great scabs would come off when I removed his shirt.
"We tried a great many remedies, but nothing would help him, till a friend induced me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment but a short time before I could see that he was improving, and in six weeks' time he was entirely cured. He had suffered about six weeks before we tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment although we had tried several other things, and doctors too. I think the Cuticura Remedies will do all that is claimed for them, and a great deal more." (Signed) Mrs. Noble Tubman, Dodson, Mont., Jan. 28, 1911.
Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the skin, will be sent, post-free, on application to "Cuticura," KK, Boston.

AGAINST BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Public Health Service Spreading Guard Lines on Importation.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The public health service continues to spread its guard lines against the importation of Bubonic Plague from Cuba and Porto Rico, and is extending repressive measures against the disease there. From Porto Rico Surgeon Creel, of the service, today reported one new case, a fatal one, in the suburbs of San Juan. From Havana a quarantine against arrivals from Porto Rico is being established. From many cities on the Gulf and Atlantic coast officers of the service report state and local authorities establishing examinations of arrivals from the plague districts, the passage of city ordinances, and other measures for the extermination of rats—the carriers of the plague—and campaigns of disinfection of the water fronts.

RACERS READY FOR START.

Eastern Yacht Club Fleet to Finish in Northeast Harbor.

SWAN'S ISLAND, Maine, July 10.—Fine weather still favored the Eastern Yacht Club fleet on the seventh day of its cruise toward Bar Harbor. The air was clear, a light breeze was blowing from the west and there was every prospect of a quick run to Northeast harbor, the anchorage for the night, for which the yachts left a couple of hours before noon today. The absence of fog on the cruise this year, the favorable breezes each day and the unusual size of the fleet in each port have been the features of the cruise now drawing to a close. The only regret was the departure of the Elena yesterday, but 32 yachts were at anchor in Burnt Coat harbor at colors today. This is the largest eastern fleet that has ancored in Burnt Coat for many years.

The cruising portion of the fleet left the harbor shortly after 9 o'clock, and an hour later the races went out for the start at the bell buoy off the little white lighthouse. The regatta committee laid out a course to the Swan's Island whistler, and then around Long and Baker's islands to a finish off Northeast harbor, a distance of 28 miles. The wind was light at the start, but increased toward noon. The yachts will have their final run tomorrow over a special course in Frenchman's bay, followed in the evening by the annual dinner in the reading room.

The Elena, which was given a clean bill of health after the necessary precautions were taken at Portland last night, had not arrived at Burnt Coat at 9 o'clock, but was expected momentarily.

ONE MILLION WHEAT PLANTS TO AN ACRE.

[L. C. Burnett in Farm and Fireside.]

Every field of wheat is made up of approximately 1,000,000 plants per acre. These plants are grouped together more or less in families, but every acre contains many hundred, and each, like the cows in the dairy herd, has individuality and character all its own.

Some families have peculiar shades and combinations of color, some are dwarf, and some are tall in stature. Some have a striking rosette habit and spread their leaves flat on the ground at the first sign of cold weather, so as to protect the tender roots and crowns from freezing. Some have strong, elastic straw, some are brittle and break down under the load of grain or when driven by the storm. Some families produce grain that is soft and starchy, while their neighbors give a hard, nitrogenous product.

Six years ago the writer started out to separate a wheat-field into its families so that the loafers and the mediocre strains could be discarded and so that wheat could be produced, not at the rate of 25 bushels per acre, but on a much higher basis. This field contained 14 so-called varieties. From each variety we picked from 20 to 100 heads. The only demand we made was that each head have 25 kernels and come from a plant that stood erect and which was free from rust and smut. Each head was threshed out separately and planted in a row by itself. There were 420 of these rows, and at harvesting time in 1907 we found that we had almost 400 different kinds of wheat.

These wheats varied over two weeks in date of maturity. When harvested, there were all gradations from rows that stood perfectly erect to those that were lodged so badly that they could scarcely be kept separate from their neighbors. Two of the rows shattered so badly that the seed was saved only with difficulty, a trait that had not been noticed in the parent variety.

GREAT CIRCULATION OF BIBLES.

[Augusta Chronicle.]

The American Bible Society, in its year just ended, issued Bibles to the number of 3,691,201. No other book ever began to reach such circulation. This number was an increase of 459,479 volumes over the previous year, and the total issues of 1911 were almost twice the issues of a year so recent as 1906. Of the vast issue last year more than half, or 1,853,845 volumes, were issued for mission and other presses in Turkey, Syria, China and Japan, so as to be near the places where they are used, and in languages which the people understand. The total issues of the society since its founding 96 years ago are 94,219,105.

JEWELRY GIVEN BISHOP OLDHAM FOR MISSIONS.

In response to the plea of Bishop W. F. Oldham of the Methodist Episcopal church, who was recently made head of the foreign mission board at the expense of his position as missionary bishop, a shower of finger rings, earrings and bracelets fell on the stage of the Red Rock camp meeting ground, Minneapolis, on the Fourth of July. Hundreds of dollars' worth of valuables were given by women present who had with them no cash to give Bishop Oldham for mission work among the Filipinos.

OFFICERS ALL RE-ELECTED.

Hardly any other method could be devised which would not cost several times that sum.

We have given special attention to the school for nurses this year. Our graduates are now eligible for registration in the state of New York and at the last session of the Rhode Island legislature a law was enacted providing for the registration of nurses in this state. We have always given much attention to text-book and class instruction in the school, but to make sure that our nurses may pass the examination required for registration we have revised and arranged the course of study to meet the requirements of the examining boards. The usual lectures have been given to all the classes by members of our medical board and the junior class has had a thorough course of instruction in anatomy and physiology by Professor H. E. Walter of Brown University. Two lectures on nursing in the diseases of children were given by Dr. Charles Hunter Dunn of Boston. Through the courtesy of Surgeon R. A. Bachmann, U. S. N., valuable instruction in bandaging has been given by hospital stewards from the naval hospital at the Training Station.

The Women's Aid Association has continued its efficient co-operation with this board. As for several years past it has paid the salary of the supervisor of district nursing, kept up the supply of linen for the hospital and made regular visits of inspection of the entire establishment. It has also recently made possible the establishment of the social service department by becoming responsible for the salary of its supervisor.

The greatest present need of the hospital is a new or greatly enlarged laundry. The present laundry is far too small and it is very difficult for the operatives to do satisfactory work, and the discomfort arising from the extreme heat and lack of proper ventilation is very great. It is exceedingly desirable that we should at once have better accommodations in this very important part of our plant.

COMING SOCIAL EVENTS.

Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs will give a fancy dress dance at "Rose Cliff" Saturday evening, July 27. Earlier in the evening, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish will give a dinner at "Crossways" in honor of Mrs. Oelrichs.

Mrs. French Vanderbilt will give a dance at "Harbourview" Saturday evening, July 20; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Harriman a dance at the Clam Bake Club Friday evening, August 2, and Mr. and Mrs. William Woodward a dance at "The Cloisters" Saturday, August 3.

Miss Augusta Hunter will entertain at dinner at the Clam Bake Club this evening.

Luncheons were given Tuesday by Mrs. Henry A. C. Taylor, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Clarence W. Dolan and Miss Charlotte Pell.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Costly Political Campaign Expected if Roosevelt Starts New Party.

Americans Great Sugar Eaters—Curious Firebug Syndicate—Many Butcher Shops Closing.

[Correspondence of the News.]

NEW YORK, July 9.—Now that the Chicago and Baltimore conventions are matters of history, New Yorkers are busily speculating as to whether the country is to see a campaign which financially, at least, will make all those which have gone before look like the proverbial 30 cents. As a result of the talk of a new third party headed by Roosevelt, the public is getting some insight into the expense of getting the voter to the polls in the proper frame of mind. Five million dollars is the amount which many experts figure the sage of Oyster Bay will need to carry out a national movement along the lines projected, and although the sum seems large it is undoubtedly not much over the mark. Indeed, by some it is held to be considerably under it.

There is no question that it costs far more today than even four years ago to carry on effective political agitation, and the high cost of campaigns threatens to become as serious a problem to the politicians as the high cost of living is to the average mortal. Estimates made within the past few days from men in a position to judge with reasonable accuracy, place the amount expended by the Roosevelt and Taft forces in their pre-convention campaigns at $1,000,000 apiece, while the cost of inflating the booms of the more numerous Democratic aspirants probably reached about the same total.

Just why such a vast sum as $5,000,000 may be needed to set a brand-new party on its legs is indicated by the fact that the cost of getting only one circular of post-cardsize to each voter in the country is about $300,000. Maintenance of headquarters in each of the 2,940 counties in the United States would cost heavily, and even if, instead of counties, the 390 Congressional districts were used as the basis of organization the cash would still go at a rate to make a millionaire's income seem trifling. When the cost of lecture halls, traveling expense, entertainment bills, campaign bills and all the other items are figured in the estimate of $5,000,000 does not appear to be far out of the way.

That 7,500,000,000 pounds of sugar will be consumed in the United States during the present year is the estimate just compiled by a statistical expert here. If this prediction is verified it will mean an average consumption of a little over 80 pounds of sugar for every man, woman and child in the country, or more than a pound and a half every week. It will mark an increase of the trifling amount of 188,000 tons over the consumption during 1911, or enough to fill a train of freight cars reaching from New York to Philadelphia. In no other country in the world, according to this authority, is the use of sugar increasing so rapidly as in the United States and no other people use it as extensively as Americans, except the British whose record will be overhauled and passed within a few years if the present rate of increase on this side of the Atlantic is maintained.

The explanation of this increased demand for sweets is interesting, since, like many other present-day developments, it is attributed to the advancing cost of living. It is pointed out that with the steadily mounting price of meat the ordinary man is forced to eat less of this product, and makes up for it by using more sugar which is recognized by dietists as a great heat and energy producer within the body. It might be expected as a natural result of this increased demand that the price of sugar itself would advance, but this, the expert shows, is one of the few food products that have not increased materially in price within the past few years. The explanation given of this is the rapid increase in the production of sugar in the United States which serves to hold down the price during a part of the year and, this authority says ultimately will mean a complete domestic supply of sugar at cheap rates, providing the growing of sugar continues to be encouraged as in the past.

New York pawnbrokers, reputed to be the wiliest of mankind, are weeping tears as the result of their discovery of the unpleasant fact that they have themselves been made the victims of a hoax. Bad as this is, the situation is made still more gloomy because of the fact that it was the members of the police force who turned the trick. For many years it has been the custom of the city's "uncles" to advance money on winter police uniforms during the summer months and vice versa, thus affording the officers some ready cash and relieving them of the necessity of stowing away clothing in moth balls. Last fall the summer uniforms were hung on the racks. There they still remain, for a new design of uniform has been accepted and the patrolmen have so little use for their old clothes that they will not come for them. The unredeemed uniforms are all but valueless, the pawnbrokers say. At the auction sales they bring exceedingly low prices. Generous amounts were allowed the owners because it was believed to be certain that they would be needed again, and it also was well to be on the good side of the police.

It is said that one broken sent a circular to all patrolmen, advising them of the large amounts allowed, and as a result he had as many as 600 police outfits in his lofts. The "good uncles" are so glum that they are even thinking of appealing to Commissioner Waldo. However, there is nothing to prevent a patrolman pawning his uniform if he is so inclined, provided the buttons, precinct numbers or other city property are removed. None the less, it is intimated that action of some sort will be taken at the next meeting of the pawnbrokers' association. A pawnbroker, said recently that he had allowed four patrolmen $13 apiece on their last year's suits. Sold in the Bowery they netted him each $4.

That the death knell of the arson trust, a curious organization of New York's underworld, will soon be sounded is the belief of the fire department here as the result of arrests, which it is expected will shortly be made, after half a decade of endeavor to bring within the clutches of the law the members of an organization which has capitalized the building of incendiary fires. According to the fire marshal, this gang in the conduct of its ingenious pursuit, has caused the loss of more than $1,000,000 in the last five years through small fires. Although its existence has long been known, the make-up of the organization is apparently as uncertain and changeable as that of the Black Hand.

It is sometimes called the firebug syndicate and is said to consist of a number of quick-witted and rather ingenious scoundrels whose usual plan of campaign is to make bargains with persons willing to defraud insurance companies by which the firebug receives a stated sum, ranging from $25 to $100, for starting a blaze, in small apartments with the connivance of those who live there who have previously insured their petty belongings for as large sums as they can get. So bold has the firebug syndicate become of late however, that as a result of their recent operations and the assistance of a member of the underworld in the confidence of the police, it is now believed that within a short time evidence will be completed which will ensure the elimination of one of the strangest and certainly the most dangerous of New York's many trusts.

In the prediction of local butchers that New York will be practically a vegetarian city by fall unless the present high prices of meat abate, local students of the high cost of living problem have at last discovered a state of affairs which they believe will go much further toward putting an end to the Beef Trust than all the actions which have been brought against it by the federal government. In other words, they now look to the packers to dig their own industrial graves unless meat products become cheaper very speedily. This new view is due to the fact that a considerable number of butchers in near-by territory have already been forced out of business or had to close up their shops temporarily, because prices on the products which they handle have soared to such an altitude as to reduce their trade to practically nothing. As a result it is a matter of almost daily occurrence to hear of the closing of one or more big butcher shops, particularly in the suburbs.

Once deprived of these distributing plants, it is believed that even the mighty beef barons may be brought to feel the effective antagonism of a public now groaning under prices higher than at any times since the Civil war. The presence of hot weather, when the consumption of meat is at its lowest coupled with the tendency to substitute fish for meat, undoubtedly has had something to do with the hard straits in which local butchers now find themselves. The prohibitive prices of beef however, are undoubtedly the most important factor in a situation which may ultimately lead to relief. Should this be the case it will be an interesting example of a big corporation killing the goose which lays the golden eggs, since it is at last being demonstrated that there is a limit even to the price which the public will pay for meats.

GIRLS' FREAKISH DRESS.

Guardian For Delinquents Declares They Wear Outlandish and Improper Costumes.

[Correspondence New York Tribune.]

Specific examples of freakishly dressed girls were pointed out by Miss Mary M. Bartelme, public guardian for delinquents, who has been chosen to act as assistant judge of the Chicago juvenile court. Miss Bartelme, accompanied by a reporter, rode in a taxicab from Lincoln Park, on the Lake Shore drive, Michigan avenue, to Jackson boulevard and up and down other streets until she had indicated at least 50 girls whose clothing, she declared, bore out her assertions that many Chicago girls dress to display, shamelessly, their physical rather than their innocent girlish charms. The taxicab had scarcely started when Miss Bartelme exclaimed:

"There! Look at that skirt, that hat, those shoes! Ten years ago that girl would have been arrested." The girl Miss Bartelme indicated was attired in a pale gray skirt, tight and short, a tight fitting coat to match, held at the waist with a shiny patent leather belt. On her head was a red Tam o' Shanter, rakishly set, with a long, drooping red feather extending backward from the crown. Her shoes were a bright tan, with high heels, and the six inches at least of her stockings that were visible proclaimed them to be of thin silk.

"There's a good example of what I condemn," Miss Bartelme said, triumphantly. "Such style as that is outlandish and improper. The girl cannot be more than 18. Her skirt reaches only a few inches below the knees. Those shoes might as well be stilts, so far as their being comfortable is concerned.

"Such clothes as those are worn only in mimicry of some daring person who sets the styles. They are growing worse and worse each year. It is shameless copying on the part of girls who wear them. They are not pretty. They display vulgarly the contour of the wearer's entire figure. How much prettier a simple girlish frock would look! And it is so in every case.

"Oh, there's another one—look!" And Miss Bartelme's eyes turned to the opposite side of the street, where there was a girl about 17, apparently attired in a tight fitting shiny blue suit. She wore white shoes and thin white stockings. At each step her skirt was drawn tight.

"She should be ashamed," Miss Bartelme commented. "When a girl dresses like that it is her mother's fault. The old-fashioned mother, who was content with simple gowns and frocks, would not tolerate much attire on her daughter. The old-fashioned mother is sadly needed now to effect a radical dress reform."

In the down-town streets through which Miss Bartelme and the reporter rode similar examples were numerous. Following the short trip, Miss Bartelme declared she would not retract from what she had said, but rather would add to it.

"I believe the girls who belong to the high school sororities are the worst," she asserted. "No style seems too daring for them. There are the panniers, the hobbles and how many other kinds of absurd skirts I do not know. The high heeled shoes—meant for the ballroom and not for street wear—are common and uncomfortable. As I said, the girls might as well wear stilts. The stockings are too thin and the hats—well, frights.

"The delinquent girls whom I meet and the factory girls are not to blame for adopting these outlandish styles. They copy them from the high school girls, whom they believe to be educated enough to know what is right. Girls in high school are just at the self-conscious age. That is the time when motherly supervision is essential. Chicago mothers are not living up to the requirements of beautiful motherhood."

PROHIBITIONISTS AT ATLANTIC CITY.

"Insurgent" Element Expected in the Convention.

Party Was Progressive When Bryan and Roosevelt Were in Kilts.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 10.—With delegates in attendance from every state in the Union and from many of the outlying American possessions, the national Prohibition convention was underway here today. This is the first national political gathering ever held in Atlantic City. The setting was most appropriate, the convention hall being located at the extreme ocean-end of a pier jutting a quarter of a mile out into the water. Open on all four sides the hall was swept by an ocean breeze, and as an accompaniment to the proceedings there was the near-by roar of the breakers crashing on the beach.

Today's session of the convention was expected to be given over entirely to the opening address of the temporary chairman, Clinton N. Howard of Rochester, to addresses of welcome, the routine business of temporary organization, and the appointment of committee on credentials, permanent organization rules and order of business, resolutions and platform.

Tonight business will be laid aside and there will be a meeting in honor of the "heroes" of the Prohibition cause. Thursday will come the permanent organization and adoption of a platform, together with miscellaneous business. Friday will come the nominations of Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates. A Prohibition parade along the board walk and the principal streets of the city was scheduled for this afternoon.

There is decidedly an "insurgent" element in the convention, and some of the sessions are expected to be marked by lively controversy. Questions relating to woman suffrage, the initiative, referendum and recall, and a proposed change in the name of the party undoubtedly will provoke debate. Some of the delegates are insisting that the name of the party be changed to "Progressive," and declare that the Prohibitionists were the first real Progressives in the national political field.

The Prohibition delegates, apparently, are earlier risers than most members of political conventions, the hour for beginning the daily sessions having been set for 9:30 a. m. instead of noon, as is customary.

Hours before National Chairman Jones called the convention to order crowds of cheering delegates, fully half of them women, marched to the pier. State delegations followed each other into the hall, shouting Prohibition rally cries and singing America. Prior to the hour of the convention a controversy in the Illinois delegation growing out of the insurgent move in the party, resulted in the refusal to recognize as a delegate Oliver Stewart of Chicago. Stewart led a losing fight in the committee meeting Monday against Chairman Jones. Stewart had been mentioned as a probable candidate for the Presidential nomination.

W. G. Calderwood, national secretary, read the call for the convention publican parties responsible for "Every law with a snake in it on the statue books," "every looted public treasury," "every unconvicted robber from Tammany hall to that maelstrom of corruption around the Golden Gate."

A welcome to the convention was given by C. H. Meade on behalf of the state of New Jersey. "If there is no death for the liquor traffic," Mr. Mead declared, "then there is future life for the nation. This nation cannot remain half sober and half drunk and the day is coming when the principles for which we stand will win."

J. B. Cranfill of Dallas, Texas, responding to the addresses of welcome on behalf of the convention declared that Woodrow Wilson was the man the Prohibitionists would have to defeat if they were to win at the next election. "If we do not win at the polls next November Governor Wilson will be President of the United States", said Cranfill.

The temporary chairman, after concluding his address, roused the delegates with allusions to party leaders whom he described as great men "capable to rule the nation as the leaders of other parties." Among these are named Eugene W. Chafin of Illinois, Charles Scanlon of Pittsburg, and R. H. Patton of Illinois.

"These men and others can lead this great progressive party and are capable to rule this land" he said. "I say progressive party for this is the great progressive party of the country. There is no need of a third party. Let the progressives come to us, for we were advocating progressive principles when Bryan and Roosevelt were wearing kilts."

A SCENE OF DESOLATION.

Fire at Thousand Island Park Leaves Ten Acres in Ashes.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., July 10.—With ten acres in the heart of Thousand Island Park, on the St. Lawrence river, in ashes and the biggest of the largest hotels and practically the entire business section of the park in ruins, that resort presents a scene of desolation this morning after the fire. The loss today is estimated at about $500,000 and, because of the high rates charged for insurance, there was only about one third of the loss covered. It is understood that steps will be taken to rebuild the hotel and other buildings owned by the Thousand Island Park Association. Besides the hotel, state educational building and other business places, 104 cottages were burned. It was not until late at night that the fire had finally burned itself out.

ammunition which the Belgian authorities thought were intended for the Portuguese Royalists, it is understood that 100 men of the Portuguese crew of this vessel secretly entered Portugal recently, and immediately disappeared in the mountains where they are commanded by the rebel leaders Acevedo and Lobo.

REVOLT IN REBEL RANKS.

General Orozco Will Face Dissatisfaction on Reaching Juarez.

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 10.—When General Pascual Orozco, Jr., arrives here he must face dissatisfaction in the ranks of his soldiers. A new rebel junta has been organized and working secretly among the troops of the rebel army, with the idea of persuading them to abandon the leadership of General Orozco and recognize General David De La Fuente as military chief, with Emilio Gomez as civil head of the rebel cause.

The Vasquista sympathizers, originators of the present revolt, which was appropriated by Orozco who repudiated Gomez, have risen again and the mutinous spirit conspicuous among the rebels of late may be traced to Vasquista influences. It is said that Vasquista leaders will meet in a few days in San Antonio, Texas, and consider plans for deposing Orozco.

The Vasquistas have been anxious ever since Emilio Gomez was overthrown by Orozco to assume charge of the revolution, but not until recent events when Orozco began to meet with military reverses have they found encouraging response in the rebel ranks. General Orozco was expected to reach here today.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION.

Senator Smith Says There Will be Big Developments Soon.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—"Outrages in Mexico are becoming so frequent that this country cannot put up with them any longer. There will be big developments in the Mexican situation in a few days." This was the prediction of Senator Mark Smith of Arizona at the White House today. Senator Smith added that he had not talked about the Mexican situation with President Taft. "We must do something, issue a proclamation or warn Mexico in some way," he said.

PRIOR TO IOWA CONVENTION.

Eleventh-Hour Efforts to Reconcile Factions of Republican Party.

DES MOINES, July 10.—Eleventh-hour efforts were being made to effect a reconciliation of the two factions of the Republican party, prior to the opening of the state convention, which met today to adopt a party platform and nominate candidates for judges of the Iowa supreme court. A conference of Progressives and Stand Patters was held, but no definite program was agreed upon. A fight on the floor over resolutions, asking for an endorsement of President Taft, was expected to develop. Progressive leaders declared that a motion to substitute Roosevelt would be made if any action was taken looking to an endorsement of Taft or of the Chicago convention.

The plan for holding a Roosevelt mass meeting following the convention has been abandoned and instead Judge S. J. Stevens has issued an invitation to Progressives to call at the Roosevelt quarters and discuss plans pertaining to the third-party movement.

ONCE MORE THE COWS.

Another distress signal was heard from the Jurgens place this morning. Those cows were again in the corn. The police wagon was sent out with Officers Ray and G. H. Shea and they found two cows and a heifer which they led to the pound, where they were locked up. They said Mr. Jurgens stated that his corn was about gone. Mr. Peckham sent word to the police station, after the officers had gone, that his cows had escaped. There was no question but that they were at large.

AMONG THE YACHTS.

Sloop Boojum Ready to Leave for Sakonnet Point—Catboat Patience Has an Engine Trial.

The little sloop Boojum, Dr. Lloyd, is ready to leave the shipyard for her summer home at Sakonnet Point. During the winter Dr. Lloyd had the little craft overhauled and changed at the yard and when she was rigged this week it was agreed that she was a pretty little craft, while in former years she looked more or less like a freak. A little good work and some judgment did wonders and there will be no visiting boat in the Sakonnet to make the Boojum look like a house carpenter's job.

The big auxiliary catboat Patience, flagship of the Outer Fountain Fishing Club, had an engine trial Tuesday. The engine was assembled by an expert from the Murray & Tregurtha works, who was here to install the engine in Mr. Lorillard's new boat. Everything worked well and it looks as though the engine would be found fit and able when the club calls on it. This will be soon, as the boat will shortly go into commission.

Master W. H. Vanderbilt's sloop Caprice is rigged and will probably go into commission this afternoon.

Sloop Taboo II went into commission at the shipyard Tuesday afternoon and it was surprising what a change in her appearance a coat of good paint properly applied made. Her new owner is Mr. J. H. McIlvaine of Jamestown.

Mr. Roderick McLeod has purchased from Mr. Ketcham of Jamestown catboat Caroline, designed and built by Mr. Brownell and more recently owned by Mr. McCloud of Jamestown. She has been brought across and is moored off the shipyard.

Knockabout Tsana, for Mr. Fred H. Strawbridge, of Jamestown, has arrived from St. Augustine, Fla., and will make one additional big boat in the Conanicut fleet.

The next race scheduled for this section is set to start from this harbor at midnight July 24. It is a long distance race to the Larchmont Yacht Club. Just how many boats will go is uncertain, but the Rhode Island Yacht Club is to have its annual run to that section just afterward, to be at Larchmont during race week, which will open July 22.

UP TO 99 IN PAWTUCKET.

Intense Heat Causes Suspension of Work in Many Mills.

PAWTUCKET, July 10.—The intense heat forced the suspension of work in several mills in this city at noon today. The unofficial temperature at that time was 99 degrees. Principal among the mills to close because of the heat were the Potter and Johnson Machine Works, employing 1,000; Sayles & Jenckes Machine Company, employing 800; the Weybosset mills, employing 600; department in the Home Bleaching & Dye Company, employing 200, and of the American Machine Company, where 800 operatives were released from work.

SCOTIA MILLS SHUT DOWN.

Intense Heat in Woonsocket Causes Cessation of Work.

WOONSOCKET, July 10.—The Scotia mills of this city, manufacturers of dress goods and employing about 300 hands, shut down at noon today because of the intense heat. The mercury at that hour stood at 93.

IN DARROW BRIBERY TRIAL.

Judge Hutton to Consider Naming New Custodian for Jury.

LOS ANGELES, July 10.—Judge George Hutton, who is presiding at the Darrow bribery trial, had an appointment today with District Attorney Fredericks to consider the advisability of naming a new custodian for the jury. The prosecution has expressed dissatisfaction at the policy of Sheriff Aguirre, claiming that he is unduly friendly to counsel for Darrow.

An attack on the testimony of Bert H. Franklin, the state's star witness in the trial, was expected to be made today by Job Harriman of counsel for defense in the McNamara trial, when he resumed the witness stand for the defense.

Noon—The government crop report of yesterday, which gives promise of more than average yield despite recent forebodings, was made the basis of an upward move in stocks today. The tone was far from regular, however, opening gains being followed by a decline from which another advance set in. Leading stocks, with the exception of Steel and Lehigh Valley, benefitted by the move which occasioned considerable short covering. Amalgamated Copper was the principal feature, its sharp advance resulting from improved conditions abroad. Such specialties as General Electric, Bethlehem Steel preferred and Realty were heavy. Bonds were steady. Money on call, firm, at 3 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4½ per cent. Exchanges $358,873,312; balances, $21,054,916.

FOR A FILIPINO STUDENT.

Girls' Friendly Societies of Trinity and Emmanuel Hold Sale at Mrs. Harold Brown's.

Probably the lawn of Mrs. Harold Brown's estate on Hazard avenue Tuesday afternoon was as cool a spot as could be found anywhere. There the Girls' Friendly Societies of Trinity and Emmanuel Churches, Miss Clara Ennis and Mrs. Harold Brown, branch managers, respectively, held a successful sale. The beautiful grounds, with the charming terrace, the grape arbor arrangement for electric lights, the stately trees and the fine roses and other flowers made a charming setting for the sale.

Grabs for adults and for children were on sale, those for the little ones being hidden in the pockets of the apron of a sort of scarecrow woman. A magician, Mr. Peter Newton, played tricks during the afternoon; Mr. Frank S. Hale gave selections on Mrs. Brown's Victor-Victrola, which was placed on the terrace, and fancy articles, home-made cake and candy, flowers, fruit, vegetables, lemonade, grape juice, ice cream and cake were sold.

An interesting exhibit showed the work done by the Girls' Friendly Society throughout the United States. This is sent to all the fairs and conferences of the society.

The proceeds of the fair are for the education of an Igorote girl at Mr Staunton's school, Sagada, Philippine Islands. Two Igorote costumes, which came from the mission in the Philippines, were shown. The man's costume was worn by Master Arthur Hughes and Miss Ennis showed the women's dress. Scales for measuring height and weight were in charge of Miss Gertrude Carley and Mrs. Goodwin.

Among those who assisted at the fair were Mrs. Lavery, Miss Gorton, Misses Edith Burgess, Esther Lawson, Emma Sharples, Annette Brown, Rosamond Langley, Laura Ronda, Mary E. Leonard, Isabella Mahan, Esther Greenlund, Marion Williams, Dorothy Foster, Mary Taylor, Carrie Todd, Selma Seigel, Mrs. Thomas Power, Mrs. A. J. Fludder, Mrs. Emery H. Porter, Mrs. Stanley C. Hughes, Mrs. aJmes Williams, Mrs. Saulpaugh, Miss Heath, Mrs. Charles Matter, Mrs. Charles Stevens, Miss Brierly, Misses Greason, King, Smythe, Marshall, Sherman, Logan, Patterson, Titus, Radcliffe, Freeman and Terry.

ANOTHER "CLEANING UP" OPPORTUNITY.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir: In this strenuous agitation to swat the fly and clean things up generally would it not be the proper thing for the paid officials of our health department to get busy and help out in the matter? Or is report true that our health officials' attention must be called to pest places before anything is done? Any one walking about town will find many places which, for the benefit of the city, require their attention.

As a starter let me call their attention to the filthy, unsanitary and disgraceful condition of the street railroad's so-called waiting room and adjoining toilet, corner Spring and Franklin streets. The condition of this place for some years back impresses me that our health department is not on to its job. Will they please get busy and help in the cleaning up?

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT WORK.

The highway department is doing what it can for the road across the creek and back of the bathing beach. It really needs a new surface, but little money is available. If the new surface on Bellevue avenue wears well it is hoped that this road can be treated the same way another year.

Work on the Bellevue Avenue improvement is temporarily tied up by the lack of asphalt, another car of which is expected. Some will be used in repairing the many holes on Broadway.

The work on Sheffield avenue, postponed from last year, is being done and a roller is employed there. Ashhurst place has also received attention and is about done. The gutter and walk is being re-laid on Calvert street.

ON THE NEW FREEBODY PARK PROGRAM.

At Freebody Park May Yohe will make her last appearance this evening, going to Bar Harbor for the remainder of the week. The all-new program opening at the matinee Thursday will include Jura, Reed and St. John in the musical novelty, "Colonial Pastimes;" Misses Crawford and Montrose, dancing vocalists: Bush and Peyser, burlesque acrobats: Jessie Livingstone, singing comedienne, and Ed Foster, dog trainer, with his latest educated pet "Teddy," engaged specially for the women and children. The feature picture will be the newest Eclair, "The Princess Lorraine," a story of the days "when knighthood was in flower."

BUSY DAY AT THE BEACH.

The heat up the river Monday turned many minds to Newport Tuesday morning. During the day a large number of excursionists visited the city and the beach had a large day for a week-day. It was a good bathing day, and still the dance hall had a good attendance while the excursionists were at the beach. There was a large local attendance during the day. The mechanics are still busy at the beach and will be for some time. None of the new work already planned except the toilets for the east section has been started, but there is much finishing of work where it stopped for the Fourth of July.

MEET UNDER THE TREES.

Club Women Hold Their Annual Meeting at Bristol Ferry.

Annual Reports and Election of Officers by the State Federation.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, by invitation of Miss Sarah J. Eddy and Mrs. Barton A. Ballou, was entertained Tuesday at their homes at Bristol Ferry. As the Social Studio was not large enough to contain the guests expected, it was decided to hold the meeting under the trees. The day was exceedingly hot and to have been confined to a house would have been almost unbearable; as it was, no one suffered unduly.

Just previous to the opening exercises a meeting of the state board was held and the board and delegates were given their badges, which were brown with gilt letters.

The president, Mrs. Clovis H. Bowen, called the meeting to order at 11:30. Mrs. C. Moulton Stone, of the Rhode Island Women's Club, made the address of welcome and Mrs. Bowen responded. A song, "O Beauteous Night, O Night of Love," Barcaroll, from "The Tales of Hoffman," was given by the glee club of the Rhode Island Women's Club, made the adber; Mrs. William W. Flint director, the others being Mrs. Gerald Cooper, Mrs. George Matthews, Miss Alice Wolfe, Mrs. Ward B. Chase, Mrs. John McAuslan and Mrs. Susan Lawton.

The reports of officers were then given. Mrs. McAlister said that one new club had been admitted to the Federation, the Humane Research Club of Newport, making a total of 35.

The treasurer gave the balance on hand at the beginning of the year as $201.02, receipts $1,451.91, expenditures $1,360.33, balance on hand $292.60.

The president, Mrs. Bowen, reported that the committee appointed to fix upon a motto for the Federation had made a choice, if endorsed by the clubs, saying it was original. It was "Our foundation, knowledge; our inspiration, hope; our motive, service." After a few questions it was adopted.

A letter was read from Mrs. Carl Barus, on the "Child labor question," and a resolution passed in regard to securing the closing of retail stores at 6 p. m. Saturdays. It seemed to be the sense of the meeting that the most effectual way to reach the desired end would be for each woman to pledge herself not to do shopping after 12 o'clock on Saturdays.

The meeting adjourned for luncheon, the basket lunch being supplemented by lemonade from Miss Eddy and tea from Mrs. Ballou. The afternoon session was opened by a song by the glee club, "Go, Happy Birds," music by W. Speiser, words by Frederick W. Bancroft.

A committee was appointed to prepare resolutions to be sent to Mrs. Decker's daughter and the General Federation of Women's Clubs, expressing sorrow for her death and sympathy in their affliction.

Reports were given in detail by the secretaries of the different clubs, telling of the work accomplished during the year. The Bristol Fortnightly Club has supported a district nurse for the past three years. Hope branch, Sunshine Society, of Newport, made an excellent showing and was applauded. The Oliphant Club is in its sixteenth year.

The committee to nominate officers for the ensuing year, Mrs. Louis Angell chairman, resented the following, who were elected:

President—Mrs. Henry W. Cushman.
Vice president—Mrs. Henry Fletcher.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss Lincoln Davis.
Treasurer—Mrs. H. P. Fenton.
General Federation Secretary—Mrs. Joseph F. Swift.

Mrs. Cushman in a pleasant speech accepted the presidency, saying that her year of office would be conducted with Jeffersonian simplicity, which drew out the applause of the audience.

Mrs. Bowen then introduced all the new officers to the gathering, which gave them a cordial welcome.

Resolutions were passed, thanking Mrs. Bowen for the way in which she had carried on the work during the year, and Miss Eddy and Mrs. Ballou for their hospitality.

There were more than 300 present. A special car transported the Providence women to and from the Sagamore, which had been chartered for the occasion.

CHANCEL PAINTINGS COMPLETE.

Artistic Effect of the Interior Decorations at St. Joseph's Church Handsome.

The paintings in the chancel recess at St. Joseph's Church have been completed. The accompanying photograph shows the artist preparing some of the figures for this painting, which were done separately because of the difficulties of working on the dark concave surface. At present the artist is engaged in painting the scenes which are to adorn the spaces over the side altars. The one on the gospel side is that depicting the Blessed Virgin, and that on the epistle side the death of St. Joseph.

Those who ave an eye for artistic merit consider that the interior of the church is to be very handsome. Every thing has been held to light tones which will make the effect cheerful, and there is that blending which appeals to one even though he may not know just why it is agreeable. The paintings have been made part of the mural decoration of the church in such a way that they are not out of harmony with the surroundings, as is often the case, and for this reason they are much admired. The type of architecture of the interior is what is called Roman, being less severe than the Romanesque.

NEWPORT COUNTY SUFFRAGE LEAGUE PLANS.

At a meeting of the Newport County Suffrage League, held with Miss Cora Mitchel in Portsmouth, there were 17 present. It was voted to open quarters on Franklin street in this city, for the dissemination of suffrage literature. Probably it will be ready next week, with some one in attendance qualified to give instruction on the subject to any one desiring it. Two lectures will be given in this city in August for this purpose, the dates, place and names of lecturers to be announced later.

OFFICERS ALL RE-ELECTED.

Newport Hospital Report Shows Deficit, Despite Prosperous Year.

Contract With the City Imposes a Heavy Burden Upon Its Finances.

The annual meeting of the corporation of the Newport Hospital was held Tuesday afternoon, when the report of the board of trustees, the treasurer, superintendent and other officers were read and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—William P. Buffum.
Vice President—James A. Swan.
Secretary—Harry G. Wilks.
Treasurer—Thomas B. Congdon.
Trustees for three years—George Peabody Wetmore, Peter King, French E. Chadwick.

The officers without exception were re-elected to the various positions. Mr. Buffum has been president since 1902 and is now entering upon his eleventh consecutive year. Messrs. Wilks and Congdon have been respectively secretary and treasurer since 1908. Senator Wetmore has been a trustee since 1884 and was president of the institution from 1890 to 1897. Mr. King has been a trustee since 1894, and Admiral Chadwick since 1908.

Great interest was manifested in the annual report of the trustees, which was given by President Buffum and is as follows:

The board of trustees of the Newport Hospital herewith respectfully present to the corporation their thirty-ninth annual report for the year ending May 31, 1912.

The managing boards of institutions like ours in making their formal reports to the corporations to which they are responsible have two objects in view. The first is necessarily that of giving an account of their performance of the task imposed upon them—including an exact statement of funds received and expended, of the work done, of the present financial and physical condition of the institution, and of its needs. The other is to put these statements in such a form that they will be readily understood by the public and greater interest in the hospital be aroused.

Direct solicitation of aid for a hospital ought not to be necessary. A statement of what it has accomplished with the means placed at its disposal, and of the ways in which its usefulness may be increased ought to be sufficient to commend it to the benevolence of the public. To issue an annual report in such a form that it will furnish full and exact information and at the same time prove interesting and attractive is an end not always attained by the writers of such reports. We fear that in our own case erroneous opinions about the hospital may have been formed on account of lack of clearness of statement, or of the information which we wish to disseminate being presented in such a form that those for whom it was intended have not cared to read it.

It is with these considerations in mind that in obedience to the by-laws and according to established custom we present to the corporation and to the public an account of our doings during the past year.

The hospital has just completed the most successful year in its history. The amount of work done not only considerably exceeds that of any other year, but is more varied in character and touches the community in more ways and more closely than ever before. The report of one previous year, that of 1908, shows a few more days' treatment but 200 fewer patients. The district nursing and out-patient departments have increased their work, and the care of advanced tuberculosis cases has been added since that time, so that the general scope of our work is now larger and broader in every way.

The total number of days has been 20,925, an increase of 3,468 or 19.8 per cent over last year. The current expenses have been $44,185.92, making the cost of treatment $2.11 per day. The receipts from all sources applicable to current expenses have been $42,422.29, thus showing a deficit of $1,763.63. The expenses have been greater by more than $2,000 than in any other year—and while we regret the deficit it is satisfactory to note that the receipts are also slightly larger than ever before.

We realize the importance of living within our means; but it is not possible to know till near the close of the year exactly what our income is to be, and the pressure of the work upon us is at all times very great. One of the ways by which we have sought to increase our income has been a special effort to obtain payment for treatment from those patients who had agreed to pay and were well able to do so. A considerable number of this class of patients were admitted for treatment, under agreement to pay—and on leaving the hospital neither paid their bills nor showed any intention of doing so. We finally placed a number of those accounts in the hands of our counsel for collection, and many of them have been paid. Since taking this action we have had less trouble with such delinquents.

On a former occasion, when it was decided that the annual deficit had become too large, a radical reduction was made in the number of patients received. For a time this method kept the expenses within fairly satisfactory limits, but it involved much hardship for the patients who were refused admission, and we have gradually gone back to our original way of taking practically all the urgent cases that present themselves.

Some economies in administration might doubtless be effected, but only if we are willing to sacrifice some degree of efficiency. From our own knowledge of hospital work and from the testimony of those of experience in such matters we believe that we have not only already succeeded in establishing creditable standards of work, but are steadily if slowly making progress towards better ones. Thorough, scientific, modern hospital treatment must be expensive, and is constantly growing more so, and if our methods are costly we are satisfied that the results are commensurate with the expense.

Before either reducing the number of patients or cheapening the service we should carefully consider if there are no other means of providing against such a deficit as we are now confronted with. One of the things which we think might be taken under consideration in this connection is our contract with the city of Newport. At present we agree to care for the city patients at the rate of $1 per day until we have been paid $4,000, and after this amount has been received to care for all the patients that may be sent to us for the remainder of the year free of charge. In other words, for the maximum sum of $4,000 we agree to care for all patients for one year without any limitation as to number. When this arrangement was first entered into we regarded it somewhat as an experiment, and now after nearly five years' trial it seems evident to us that it imposes too great a burden on the hospital.

During the last year we gave to city patients 9,371 days' treatment, 3,348 in the emergency ward and 6,023 in the general wards. The expense of caring for patients being, as we have just shown, more than $2 per day, the cost of this cannot be estimated as less than $18,742. We received for it under the two contracts with the city, one for the year beginning March 23, 1911, and one for the year beginning March 23, 1912, $4,672, leaving an amount of work which cost the hospital $14,070 for which no payment was received. If we had been paid at the rate of $1 per day, or one half the cost, we would have been able to finish the year with a balance in the treasury.

A further disadvantage is that we have been able to care for almost no paying patients in the emergency ward, that being entirely given over to city patients the greater part of the time. Judging by former experience, if we could have found accommodations for them we would have received from private patients in this ward enough to pay nearly or all the deficit of the year.

We think that at the expiration of the present contract if the city should wish us to continue to receive its patients there should be a conference between the city authorities and this board with a view to arranging a new contract on more equitable terms.

The hospital continues to care for advanced cases of tuberculosis, the city re-imbursing us for the actual cost. The patients are cared for in whatever way appears advisable for each case. When it is possible to do so the patients are sent to the Holy Ghost Hospital for Tuberculosis at Cambridge, Mass., where they receive excellent care. Very frequently, however, they refuse to go to the hospital on account of the separation from their friends and occasionally do not come under our observation till they are too ill to be moved. These cases we care for as best we may, either in their homes or by finding places where they can board with as little danger as possible to others. They are then visited regularly by our district nurses and when they become very ill it is usually possible to find attendants for them at comparatively small expense.

It is obvious that objections can be raised against this method. The Board of Health of the city in its last report expressed its strong disapproval of it, and stated that these patients should all be cared for in hospitals where they would not endanger the health of others. Of the correctness of this opinion there can be no question. It would be to the advantage of both the patients and the public if this recommendation of the Board of Health could be carried out. But many patients would refuse to enter any hospital, and the great expense of maintaining a hospital in the city for a few patients prevents the approval of such a plan by the taxpayers of the city.

Should the state hospitals for these advanced cases, now being urged by the tuberculosis association of the state, be built, many of the difficulties connected with the subject will be removed.

The present method, however, is not without its advantages. It relieves a great amount of suffering and provides a certain amount of hospital treatment at very small cost, and where the patients are not sent to the hospital the constant nursing and oversight reduces the danger of contagion to a minimum. It also has the advantage of very great economy. At the expiration of the last year's contract the cost to the city had been $2,093.54.

REV. H. M. KINGSLEY RESIGNS.

Pastor of the Union Congregational to Leave That Denomination.

Re-instated in African Methodist Episcopal Church and Appointed to Bridgeport.

Rev. Harold M. Kingsley, pastor of the Union Congregational Church since June, 1911, tendered his resignation Tuesday evening at a meeting of the church. He has been re-instated in the African Methodist Episcopal Church, with which he was formerly connected, and will leave shortly to take up the pastorage of the church of that denomination in Bridgeport, Conn., to which he was appointed at the closing session of the New England Conference, in Providence. The local church voted to receive the resignation and to call another meeting two weeks hence to take action on the matter of its acceptance.

Rev. Mr. Kingsley is a graduate of the Yale Divinity School, receiving his degree a few days before coming to the Newport church. Before that he graduated from Talladega College, Talladega, Ala. Shortly after his arrival here he was formally welcomed at a large reception, held in the church, at which Mayor Boyle and other prominent persons were present. He is regarded as a forceful speaker and delivered an address before the school children at the Lincoln Day exercises. He has worked hard during the year he has been here, in an effort to put the church on a better financial basis, and has also succeeded in gaining the support of the young people.

In his new field he will not be altogether a stranger, as he has lived there a short time as a supply pastor. He will leave for Bridgeport within a day or two, as soon as possible.

ONLY ONE LOCAL BIDDER.

Proposals for Removing Wrecks at Oakland Beach and Vineyard Sound Opened.

Bids have been opened by Colonel Frederic V. Abbott at the engineer office in this city for the removal of three wrecks in this vicinity which are menaces to navigation. One of the vessels is sloop Tina B., aground near Oakland, and the others are coal-laden schooners Lois V. Chaples and Hannah F. Carleton, in Vineyard sound.

Three bids were received for the removal of the Tina B at Oakland Beach, as follows: J. K. Sullivan, Newport, $465; Frederick Wallace, Submarine Diving and Wrecking Company, Boston, $340; Charles E. Davis, New Bedford, $480.

There were two bidders for removing the wrecks in Vineyard Sound—Merritt & Chapman Derrick and Wrecking Company, New York, for the Lois V. Chaples, $2,372; for the Hannah F. Chapman, $2,372; total, $4,744, Frederick Wallace Submarine Diving and Wrecking Company, for the Lois V. Chaples, $4,100; for the Hannah F. Carleton, $4,300, a total of $8,400.

POLICE BUSINESS.

The police had quite a number of cases for the court this morning. Three women for lewd and wanton conduct, were placed on probation. The man who had the two knives Tuesday pleaded guilty to a charge of having a knife with a blade longer than three inches, the legal length for a pocket knife, and paid $17.60. Two men for using profane swearing on the stret were fined $5 and costs each, a total of $7.60 each. They are waiting for the coin. Both are sailors. A man for drunkenness was fined $2 and costs, but had it not.

Joseph S. Venancio of Middletown was arraigned on a charge of collecting swill without a permit from the Board of Health. He was caught this morning, agreed that he had done it, and the judge said $20 and costs, which he paid.

Probation Officer Murphy from Fall River was here Tuesday and picked up one of his probationers who had been here for several weeks.

A telephone call took the patrol wagon to Marlborough street Tuesday night and there a drunken man was found, trying to enter a house where he was not welcomed. He explained that he thought it was his own house. He had made a mistake and meant no harm—just lost his bearings.
